lived in behalf of Hoover is a letter which the postmaster general wrote to Booth Tarkington, the novelist, informing his fellow cabinet member.

The followers of former Gov. Jim Goodrich are also lined up for Hoover, as are those of Will Hays, but since the late revelations of the oil scandal in the late Republican party the Hoovers are no longer mentioning Hays as an asset. They were greatly relieved when the movie overlord found it necessary to go abroad and still more relieved to learn that he would return after the Indiana primary.

Among those who have taken the stump for Hoover in Indiana are Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who hopes to be the candidate for Vice President if Hoover is nominated; Robert A. Taft, son of the chief justice; Gov. Green of Michigan; Gov. Harding of Iowa; J. Adam Beck, Master of Wilbrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement; and Prof. Michael Pupin, the foreign born inventor who has specialized on foreign born audiences. Ogden Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, was detained in Washington but sent a statement of his reasons for supporting Hoover.

Dawes and Lowden Help.

Watson has at his back not only a political machine of unparalleled efficiency, organized right down to the election precinct throughout the state, but powerful influences exerted in his behalf by Frank O. Lowden, Vice President, Dawes and their friends in Indiana.

It is well understood by the Lowdens and the Dawesites that Watson has not the remotest chance of winning the nomination for President at Kansas City. Dawes is generally credited with effecting the arrangement whereby Watson, if given the Indiana delegation on Tuesday, is to vote it for Lowden. It had been foreseen that Hoover might enter the Indiana primary, and it was thought that Watson would be more likely to defeat him than would Lowden.

This is perfectly satisfactory to the Dawes partisans, who know that Watson really prefers Dawes to Lowden and can well realize that it would be a blow at the switch if Lowden should be unable to make the grade at Kansas City. The Watsonites are openly proclaiming that a vote for Watson is a vote for Lowden or for Dawes.

Farm Bureau Powerful.

There are powerful organizations lined up in support of Watson. There is the Indiana Farm Bureau federation, representing 66,000 farmers. So powerful is this organization that it delivered the Indiana delegation in congress solidly for the McNary-Haugen bill.

Praying for Rain.

Incidentally, the federation is praying for rain on Tuesday, for if the day is too rainy to work in the fields, the farmers will go to town to vote for Watson and against Hoover. Otherwise they would be inclined to stick to their planting, which is best.

Primaries or Conventions in Eight States This Week

[Chicago Tribune Free Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 6.—[Special]—Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover will add to his delegations strength this week regardless of whether or not he wins in Indiana.

Nineteen delegates are assured for Hoover in Maryland, where primaries are to be held tomorrow. While there is a controversy between two Republicans as to control of the state organization, both delegations are for Hoover and there is no opposing presidential candidate. Supporters of Frank O. Lowden considered entering the former Illinois governor in the contest, but finally decided not to do so.

Secretary Hoover also may pick up delegates this week in Florida, where a Republican state convention is to be held on Thursday. Florida has ten delegates.

Convention On in Alabama.

Alabama Democrats are to hold a primary on Tuesday. Regardless of southern opposition and the fact that Alabama is the home state of Senator Heffin, who is leading a crusade against Gov. Al Smith, the New York executive's supporters believe they will obtain a few of the twenty-four Alabama delegates.

Democratic state conventions are the Pennsylvania delegation.

scheduled this week in Delaware on Tuesday, Michigan on Wednesday, Tennessee on Thursday, and Nevada on Friday. Delaware has six delegates, Michigan 20, Tennessee, 24, and Nevada 6.

The Smith forces expect to gain most of the delegates in these states, except in Tennessee, where the delegation will be instructed to support Senator Cordell Hull (Democrat). The thirty Michigan delegates are already assured for Gov. Smith as a result of the primary in that state. Friends of Gov. Smith are expected to be in control in Delaware and Nevada.

Pennsylvania G. O. P. Farley.

One of the events of the coming week which will have significance in connection with the Republican presidential contest is a meeting of the Republican state committee of Pennsylvania on Saturday. Members of the Pennsylvania delegation to the national convention will get together for the first time on this occasion and there is a possibility that some expression may be forthcoming on their choice for President. The delegates are uninstructed and will follow the leadership of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

The outcome of the Indiana primary may have a bearing on the attitude of the Pennsylvania delegation.

He couldn't have wielded more influence in the Klan than he has been a member. Witness the incident of the grand dragon of the Klan in the Indiana delegation at the Republican national convention at Cleveland, who subsequently proclaimed Watson the Klan's choice for nomination for Vice President.

DRYS O. K. ROBINSON

Indianapolis, Ind., May 6.—[Special]—The Rev. E. S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league, which is for Watson, has been accused of being a member of the Klan. Dr. Shumaker denied the imputation, asserting he had asked Watson merely to request that the decision be expedited.

Klan Remnant Backs Senator.

Also lined up for Watson in the remnant of the Ku Klux Klan, said to be reduced to 10,000 men and 30,000 women in Indiana. When the Klan had 400,000 Hoosier members, four or five years ago, the Watson organization was hand in glove with the hooded knights. Watson at that time thought he had "seen the good graces of the Klan for political advancement. His political motto always has been, "If I can't lick 'em, join 'em."

Not that he ever joined them, though he was accused of it. He didn't need to be asked to do it.

Then there is the Anti-Saloon league, which is for Watson. It classes Hoover as "dry" but Watson as "dry of record." The latter is the highest degree awarded by its superintendents, the Rev. E. S. Shumaker, long the dictator of Indiana's super-government, whom the Supreme court recently adjudged in contempt for some of his high handed actions. The reason for this is that Hoover is dry by his profession while Watson is dry by actual demonstration of his votes on prohibition legislation.

Some there are, to be sure, who think the league is not so enthusiastic for Watson as it might be, possibly because of the Shumaker contempt incident. Watson related how the Rev. Mr. Shumaker telephoned him and informed him the Superintendents to dismiss the contempt proceedings and how he indignantly refused to interfere with the course of justice. Dr. Shumaker denied the imputation, asserting he had asked Watson merely to request that the decision be expedited.

CO-ED, AN HONOR STUDENT, KILLS SELF IN HOTELDaughter of Rich Lumber Dealer Takes Poison.

An element of mystery yesterday surrounded the suicide of Miss Ruth A. Good, 21 year old honor student at the University of Washington, who wrote a note to each of her parents and then swallowed poison in a room at the Hotel LaSalle, in which she occupied with her mother.

Shock of the unexpected discovery of her daughter's body as she opened the bathroom door at 7 a. m. caused the mother, Mrs. Alice Good, of Kalispel, Mont., to collapse. Hotel attendants summoned Central police who were later told that the girl had been despondent over what she considered permanent loss of her health.

Suffers Nervous Breakdown.

Mother and daughter came to Chicago on Saturday morning from the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., where they had spent two weeks, and were en route to the Hotel LaSalle, for further medical consultation. For several months, Mrs. Good said, something had been preying on her daughter's mind. She suffered a nervous breakdown as a result.

In an attempt to change Ruth's mood, Mrs. Good took her to an afternoon matinee and then to an evening show. The girl seemed cheerful, Mrs. Good said, but apparently she purchased the poison between shows when she entered a drug store, on the pretext of buying a lipstick.

Leaves Notes for Parents.

When her mother retired, the girl made a pretense of sleeping in one of the available hotel rooms, but lay awake until midnight, then lay back to sleep. She then got up and wrote the two notes, one to her father, Henry Good, a wealthy Montana lumberman. After that she took the poison.

The note read:

"Dear father—I am sorry. You've been the dearest in the world. When you read this I shall be gone—but then, you see, I never really lived. I believe in God enough, and by dying this way I shall live. God bless you father. I am sorry."

"Dear mother—This way was the only way. I am sorry. I had learned to love you."

Mrs. Good asserted that she could not explain the meaning of the note left for herself. She had always believed that her daughter loved her, she said.

POINCARE TO GIVE ALSATIANS FREE HAND IN RELIGIONIssues a New Warning Against Autonomy.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Free Service.]

PARIS, May 6.—The Alsatian question has brought to the forefront of the French political scene today by Premier Poincare in a speech at Metz, the ancient capital of Lorraine.

Because he is from Lorraine himself, and because the Lorraines always have been more tractable than the decidedly Teutonic Alsatians, the premier used sharper words today than yesterday at Metz.

"France firmly resolved never to let go of a single parcel of Lorraine or Alsace," he said. "Furthermore, our neighbors are pledged never to take it; and France never will consent to the creation of a neutral or autonomous state whose existence, fragile and precarious, would fatally prepare the way for new conflicts."

Freedom in Religion.

This merely is a restatement of the traditional French attitude on autonomy and independence, which is significant in the premier's speech, and proves that France heeded the warning of the elections, which sent three autonomists to parliament, in the passage promising that there will be no interference with the religious status of the recovered provinces, where the concordat still holds, although it was abrogated in France.

Promising this, Premier Poincare changed the whole aspect of the knotty Alsatian problem. Heretofore preponderantly Catholic, Alsace feared that the anti-clerical French would close the religious schools, the monasteries and convents, as they had done in France.

Will Keep Promises.

"The republic promised to respect the traditions and customs of the recovered provinces and preserve their autonomy and independence. That is to say, the confessional, bilingual instruction, and concordat," Poincare said. "We have kept this promise, and will keep it."

The government hopes this promise has reached the ears of Pope Pius.

The French ambassador to the Vatican was instructed to urge the papacy now to reconcile its priests, who are at the bottom of most of the automonist agitations.

But the Colmar trial of the automonists still is fraught with grave dangers. With three deputies who, within a month, will do nothing but shout autonomy from the floor of the chamber, it is next to impossible to convict the Alsatians on charges of treason for agitating for the same thing. The state's attorney thus far has failed to prove the fifteen accused guilty of conspiracy.

JAPANESE MOVE TO AVENGE DEATH OF 60 IN CHINA

May Drive Nationalist
Troops from Tsinan.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
TOKIO, May 6.—Gen. Fukuda, commanding the Japanese Shantung expedition, today recommended that the troops under the command of Ho Yao-tsu, who led the massacre of Japanese, be driven from Tsinan. The Japanese propose to seize the city and the Tsinan-Tsingtao railroad. It is indicated the government here approves. The Japanese troops are expected to take positive steps tomorrow, when the Manchurian reinforcements arrive. Another division from Japan is ready to be dispatched.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
PEKING, May 6.—The Japanese consul today reports fourteen bodies of slain civilians have been recovered in Tsinan. The total dead among the Japanese, including soldiers, approximates sixty.

The situation has been quiet since May 4, but conditions are uncertain, owing to the difficulty of restraining the radical divisions of south Chinese nationalists. The Shantung railway is severed in thirteen places, with several small Japanese forces isolated. The nationalists occupy the railway 25 miles from Tsingtao and at numerous points for a distance of 170 miles, thus presenting a difficult problem for the Japanese troops who have arrived from Darien enroute to Tsinan. The campaign against Japan is intensifying throughout China, while internal warfare seemingly is slackening.

U.S. CONSUL ENDS FIGHT

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
SHANGHAI, May 6.—According to a report appearing in the Chinese newspaper Shumao here, fighting between Japanese and nationalist Chinese troops at Tsinan finally ceased as a result of the mediation of the American consul, Ernest B. Price. The report states that although Gen. Chiang Kai-shek held several interviews with the Japanese consul and military officers, they failed to reach an understanding, and the fighting continued until the American framed a basis of agreement.

A telegram from Gen. Chiang, circulated to the press today, after stating the Japanese hostilities at Tsinan are abating, says:

"The Japanese troops in Shantung have challenged China by firing upon our soldiers and civilians. The number killed is more than 1,000. The Japanese malice is beyond description. As a true revolutionist I cannot bow to such bullying. We must expose the Japanese deliberate brutality to the world and hasten our own awakening, but first we must immediately proceed with the consummation of the northern military expedition, despite the Japanese opposition."

Launch Boycott of Japanese.
Nationalists' Chinese reply to the recommendation of the Japanese general staff for the occupation of Shantung province, including the provincial railways, was to declare a general hedge day tomorrow. Schools, shops, and factories will be closed in order to hold massmeetings for the framing of protests against the "massacre of nationalist officials and civilians at Tsinan." The order for the holiday and massmeetings was issued by the Kuomintang party directors for the Shantung area.

It was also decided to launch immediately a movement for the severance of economic relations with Japan.

The report says no Chinese will buy or sell Japanese goods, including food, and will cease all transactions with Japanese banks; also that all Chinese working for Japanese firms must resign immediately.

In addition to this action leading Chinese organizations here have demanded that the nationalist government immediately take steps for national defense against Japan. The Chinese chamber of commerce sent a long telegram to Marshal Chang Tso-lin, the Peking war lord, and other northern war lords, recommending, in view of the national peril, that in-

RELIGION A STILL UNSOLVED RIDDLE, SAYS DR. SPERRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, May 6.—"The American note on peace is the most hopeful sign waved in a long time," declared the railroad men's leader, J. H. Thompson, a Rhodes scholar holding degrees from Yale, Harvard, and Oxford, told his audience he could not solve the riddle in the "labors of disintegration" at Derby today. "I hope no committee of our government with any European power will prevent us from signing such a pact saying, 'We join with you, as we believe that is the one hope of the world.'

"The best thing we can do is to take up our pen and sign. That will give evidence of our faith in this matter."

The London Labor party's Labor day celebration today passed resolutions denouncing militarism and war.

CHICAGO READY TO HAIL BREMEN CREW THIS WEEK

Getz Back After Visit with Three Flyers.

George F. Getz, chairman of Mayor Thompson's citizens' committee, returned yesterday from New York, where he conferred with the German and Irish trans-Atlantic flyers on their visit to Chicago this week.

The flyers, Mr. Getz reported, plan to leave Philadelphia by plane on Thursday morning. Because the flight to Chicago cannot be made without refueling en route, the airmen will probably land and spend Thursday night at some intermediate point, Mr. Getz said. When they arrive in Chicago Thursday evening, however, they will be greeted at the airport by the reception committee consisting of Mr. Getz, Edward J. Kelly, president of the south park board; Elmer T. Stevens, W. R. Abbott, and William R. Dawes.

Complete Plans Today.

The program of entertainment for the flyers on Friday will be informal. Definite arrangements will be completed this afternoon at a conference of the reception committee in the mayor's office, but it will probably consist of a drive on the boulevards during the day and a theater party in the evening.

The official demonstration will be held on Saturday. Starting at Roosevelt road and Michigan avenue, a parade will range of the city. Frank R. Schwengel will proceed to Monroe street, where it will turn into Grant park and march along the inner drive to Soldiers' field. Among the units in the parade will be the National Guard, 500 naval reserves, the Great Lakes naval training station band, 125 foot American Legion posts, the R. O. T. C. and Indian groups.

Perhaps the most colorful feature of the demonstration will be the formation on one side of the arena of the flag of the Irish Free State by members of Irish societies wearing appropriately colored paper caps. On the other side, the German societies will form the flag of the German republic.

Soccer Game Planned.

Other events at Soldiers' field will include a soccer game and a program by the German choral societies. Except for the automobiles carrying the flyers, no other cars will be permitted to enter the arena.

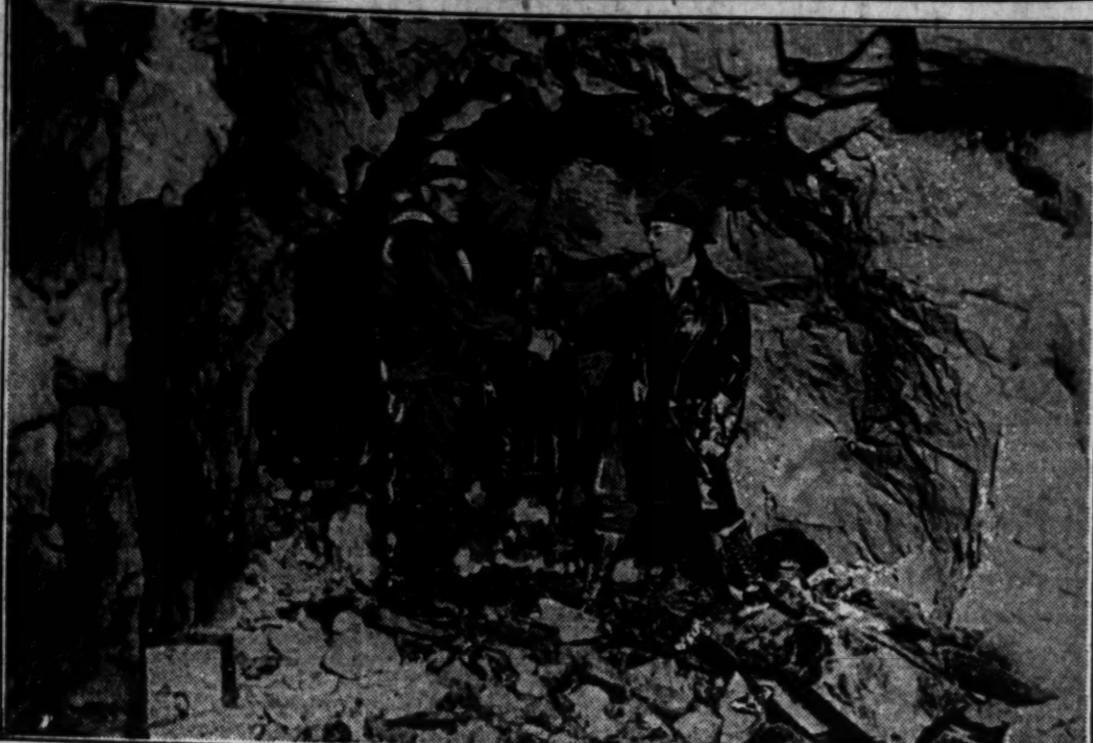

In the evening a banquet will be held in the Stevens hotel. It is expected that more than 4,500 will attend.

The flyers will take off from the Municipal airport, 62d street and Cicero avenue, late Sunday morning for Milwaukee.

Mr. Getz reported these plans to Louis E. St. Gaudens, representative of the North German Lloyd, and Dr. Hugo F. Simon, the German consul in Chicago, yesterday afternoon.

At a massmeeting in the city council chambers tomorrow morning, Mr. Getz and other members of the reception committee will outline the plans as they are finally agreed upon this afternoon at the Stevens. The civic groups represented will be instructed in the parts they are to play in the reception program.

CAR AND HOME RULE BILLS TO BE PLANNED TODAY

Plans for traction and home rule legislation are to be discussed this afternoon at a meeting called by Ald. Joseph B. McDonough, chairman of the local transportation committee of the city council, preparatory to submitting a definite program to the legislature, which meets in special session May 15.

McDonough's intention is to try and work out a means whereby in the passage of a home rule bill the city would have jurisdiction in the matter of a traction ordinance as well as general supervision over all public utilities. Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Etelson is to convey his ideas on the subject to the McDonough committee in a letter he was drafting yesterday, in which was to be made public until read by the committee.

Attorney William H. Sexton, former corporation counsel under Mayor Harrison, has been retained by Mr. Etelson to draft a home rule bill, in which he will be assisted by Attorney W. R. Matheny. Yesterday Mr. Sexton said he had not yet made sufficient progress to announce any of its features. He, too, will make a report to the committee today.

Other possible action was indicated in the calling of a special meeting today of the council subcommittee on terminable permit franchises by Ald. E. I. Frankhauser.

MUSSOLINI LAUDS PROGRESS MADE BY ITALIAN LABOR

National Syndicates Meet in Rome.

BY DAVID DARAH.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)
ROME, May 6.—Premier Benito Mussolini journeyed unexpectedly today at the inauguration of the third national congress of the confederation of Fascist syndicates. He was greeted by Albert Thomas, of the international labor bureau; Augusto Turati, secretary of the Fascist party; Undersecretary for Corporations Botai, and more than 6,000 delegates of the national syndicates.

Il Duco made a brief address saying that the last century will be known in history as the century of capitalist civilization, and the present century will be called corporative. The corporative state, however, must not be forced, he added.

Born Brunt of Battle.

"So far in Italy," Premier Mussolini said, "we are in the syndicalist phase; later we will have true corporatism."

Pointing to Italy's efforts toward an economic revival, Il Duco said the laborers bore the brunt of the battle for the lira in perfect discipline, making its revaluation possible.

Syndicalism Established.
The congress demonstrated that the establishment of the syndicalist state in Italy is an accomplished fact. It follows meetings of the agricultural industry, commerce, bank, intellectual, and transportation syndicates, assembled in Rome to discuss problems important to each.

The meetings will continue several days for a discussion of the order of the day, including labor contracts, a syndicalist university, and the mutual Fascist assistance and protective institutes.

"WILD MARRIAGE" AUTHOR FILES DIVORCE SUIT

Oakland, Cal., May 6.—(AP)—Dr. Benjamin Harrison Lehman, novelist and associate professor of English at the University of California, has filed suit for divorce against Mrs. Gladys Collins Lehman, said by friends to be a scenario writer in Hollywood.

Dr. Lehman's first novel, "Wild Marriage," attracted attention about a year ago because of "advanced" opinions expressed. He told friends Mrs. Lehman went to Hollywood about the time his book was completed, and added that they had agreed to a "trial separation."

The divorce complaint charges desertion.

HOUSE TO BOOST SALARIES OF U. S. EMPLOYEES TODAY

135,000 to Get Total of 18 Million More.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., May 6.—(Special)—It is reported to one of the most efficient and highly organized lobbies which has operated in Washington in many years, the house will pass the Smoot-Welch bill increasing the salaries of 135,000 government employees and adding $18,000,000 to the federal pay roll. About 45,000 are employed in the District of Columbia and 90,000 others are scattered throughout the states.

The bill will come to the house floor under a suspension of the rules and is expected to be sent to the senate without a dissenting vote. In the senate it is to be called up almost immediately for final passage without any hearings having been had by a committee.

Reclassifies Civil Service.

The measure, a reclassification of the entire civil service, is admittedly only the forerunner of a more comprehensive and more costly bill which is to be introduced at the next session of congress following an exhaustive survey of the service.

As originally offered by Representative Welch (Rep., Calif.) the bill, sponsored by the Federal Employees union, proposed sharp horizontal salary increases for every grade in the civil service, and it was estimated that the proposal would have added from $60,000 to $90,000,000 to the pay roll.

Tell of Better Pay by Industry.

Hearings were ordered by the house civil service committee, and years of agitation for a better pay scale in the government service culminated in one of the most unusual demonstrations ever staged in Washington by proponents of any legislation. On one day more than 1,000 government employees bearing banners and flags marched upon the capitol demanding to be heard.

Janitors and charwomen, clerks and bureau chiefs were brought from Boston, New York and the far west as well as from all the disparity between their salaries in the government service and the salaries paid for similar work in industry. Meanwhile every member of the house, particularly those from the cities, was deluged with propaganda and appeals in behalf of the measure from constituents who were enlisted by the National Federation of Federal Employees.

Coolidge Seals Down Boost.

The result of the pressure was that the house committee recommended the bill in substantially the form it was first offered. President Coolidge, however, indicated his disapproval of the $60,000 to $90,000,000 boost, and the bureau of the budget recommended a substitute proposal which was introduced with slight modifications in the Senate by Senator Smoot (Rep., Utah) and later accepted by the house committee.

Senator Smoot, learning that the President would not oppose a measure increasing the cost of the program to $20,000,000, amended his bill to include provision for a $5,000 maximum salary for bureau heads, professionals and scientific workers and specially qualified workers whose services may be lost to the government in competition with private employers.

The postal service, foreign service, and employees whose wages are fixed by wage boards are excluded from participation in the increase which, generally speaking, range from $60 to $120 a year through the classified service.

THE SPECIAL SESSION FOR TRACTION.

Gov. Small announced Friday that he would call a special session of the legislature for May 15 to pass legislation affecting public utilities. A statement explained that this would be done to make good the promise that we give Chicago an opportunity to get home rule in such matters and the power to grant franchises subject to the referendum vote of the people.

The promise mentioned was made to Mr. Thompson before the primaries. At the time Mr. Small was confident that he would be renominated. Mr. Thompson was confident that his organization and his candidates would be successful and that what he called his policies would be endorsed. Their expectation was that the primary vote would continue their hold on public affairs. It was disappointed. The voters in the state and in the county defeated Small, defeated Smith, defeated Crowe, and smashed about everything of Thompson on which they could lay their hands.

They took stock of the state of affairs and threw out the responsible persons wherever they could be reached. The Thompson-Small traction program was known. As "the deal" it was a conspicuous issue in the campaign and it was one of the factors in the results. The government of the state and the city was repudiated by a vote which astonished even the people who cast it and dumfounded the candidates against whom it was launched.

It was a declaration that the state was through with Small and his conduct in office. It was a declaration that Chicago had all it could stand of Thompson.

If Small calls the legislature into special session he and Thompson will stand before it as discredited public officials with repudiated programs for legislative action. If they reintroduce bills similar to those which were crowded upon the legislature before they will be endeavoring to wipe out the election returns.

At the end of this year Small is out. Thompson remains in office. The legislators who will act in the special session must go through the November election if they want to return to Springfield in January. Small has nothing to lose if the legislature gives Chicago a raw traction deal. Thompson might think of himself as having lost about everything except the remaining years of his term. But the legislators have their political future in their hands.

There is still other responsibility for the session. The control of the party in the state has been taken over by the nominees, Emerson, Glenn, Carlstrom, etc. Deneen, Swanson, and their associates were successful in Cook county. They are the beneficiaries of the popular revolt and they already have responsibilities of trusteeship. They also have influence with members of the legislature. They cannot permit the period before the change of administration to be used viciously in the general assembly.

It is probable that all this will be appreciated. This session does not follow a primary in which the disreputable and scheming leadership of the Republican party was successful and therefore it may be expected that there will be a change of tone and spirit in the legislature.

If there should not be, there certainly will be an accounting. That may be relied upon, we believe.

YESTERDAY, TODAY AND TOMORROW.

Harper Leech, in his recent article on the relief map of North America in the Tribune's Towns Today, explained "why." And O. A. Mathe, in his report of the speeches of George M. Reynolds and L. A. Downs, told "what." Together, they prophesied Chicago's destiny as the world's greatest city.

To the east are mountains and a thin, unfertilized soil; to the west are mountains and great deserts. Between, midcontinent, the map shows, in Mr. Leech's words, "the broad expanse of nourishing earth—crowned by the lakes, with feet laved in the gulf." This is the great producing midwest, the heart, and source, and foundation of America's huge wealth and deep laid prosperity. "I often marvel at the growth of Chicago in the last thirty years," said Mr. Reynolds, "but it is really no wonder that Chicago has grown and that its banks and its stock exchange have kept pace. We are in the center of the greatest wealth producing territory in the world."

In thirty years Chicago's bank deposits have increased 1,075 per cent, as compared to 880 per cent for the whole country. Our banking conditions and methods are unsurpassed for soundness and constructive helpfulness. Our system of clearing house examinations has extended, as Mr. Reynolds reminds us, to all large cities, and we have a solid financial framework for the conservation of investment and the healthy development of our industries. These industries are growing rapidly and our people are a thrifty stock, well distributed wealth, who invest much of their savings in stocks and bonds and thus supply to their own profit and that of all the nation the capital necessary to the growth of productive enterprise.

Chicago is also the greatest transportation center in the world and the decision of the Illinois

Central railway to list its stock on the Chicago stock exchange is a significant and important action. It is a movement toward the financial autonomy or independence of the great central region. "It brings trading and transfer of the company's stock," says President Downs, "into the same territory through which the railroad runs and to the state in which the railroad is chartered." It represents an advance toward the ownership and control of our western transportation by the people who are most concerned in its welfare and expansion, as The Tribune has urged repeatedly. Mr. Downs asserts that there is a tendency for ownership of his road to move to the scene of its operations and this tendency should appear in all our railroads and all our great enterprises. All should list their shares on the Chicago stock exchange. "Why should the people of Chicago have to go to the east to do their trading in stocks and bonds?" asks Mr. Downs. The greatest productive territory of the world should control itself.

Chicago, meanwhile, has embarked upon a project for the celebration of its centenary. It is inspired to review its past and to look into the future. This is a time to ponder the sources of our well-being, of our power and potentialities. It is a time to take account of stock in all forms, material and spiritual. It is a time for broad views and for courageous planning. Our progress has been swift, but it does not cease. It sweeps on and it is up to us of this generation, in justice to our forefathers whose character and foresight, whose intelligence and energy have brought us to the high ground on which we stand today, in justice to ourselves, and in justice to those who come after us, to make the best possible use of our great resources and to hand on our splendid heritage not only unimpaired but enriched to our posterity.

COME ON, INDIANA.

Thomas H. Adams, the fighting editor of the Vincennes Commercial, is the outstanding contender for the Republican nomination for governor of Indiana. There are eight other candidates and we imply no criticism on them, but for the great congregation of good citizenship outside of Indiana which is watching the splendid campaign for the restoration of clean politics and real Americanism in that state, the victory of Adams in the primary and at the polls would mean more than the success of any other man. Adams has been in the forefront of the battle. He has put up a fight for honesty and decency against corruption, hypocrisy, and fanaticism which has not only won him respect and applause throughout the nation but which assures him a place in our political history. More than any one else, probably, he represents to the nation the spirit of militant reform in Indiana.

And we believe the country is watching the course of events in Indiana with more seriousness than is given to any state campaign. The cleanup in Illinois encouraged every good political influence in the nation and, we hope, prepared the way for a restoration of decency, official integrity, and genuine American character of the state and the city was repudiated by a vote which astonished even the people who cast it and dumfounded the candidates against whom it was launched.

It was a declaration that the state was through with Small and his conduct in office. It was a declaration that Chicago had all it could stand of Thompson.

If Small calls the legislature into special session he and Thompson will stand before it as discredited public officials with repudiated programs for legislative action. If they reintroduce bills similar to those which were crowded upon the legislature before they will be endeavoring to wipe out the election returns.

The cleanup in Illinois encouraged every good political influence in the nation and, we hope, prepared the way for a restoration of decency, official integrity, and genuine American character of the state and the city was repudiated by a vote which astonished even the people who cast it and dumfounded the candidates against whom it was launched.

What dare we hope for the future of America if the people of such a state as Indiana, long the just bride not only of its own citizens but of all America, fall in the test now before them?

MR. BURCHMORE FOR THE
I. C. C.

Mr. John S. Burchmore of Evanson has been mentioned as a successor to Mr. Bach on the interstate commerce commission.

Mr. Burchmore is a lawyer. He served for a time with the Illinois Central railroad. Later he became attorney examiner and assistant to James S. Harlan of the interstate commerce commission. Since 1913 he has been engaged in the practice of law in Chicago, specializing in matters affecting the regulation of common carriers and public utilities and has represented clients, both railroads and shippers, in all sections of the country. He is therefore equipped with a national viewpoint and is thoroughly experienced with the requirements for the same regulation of common carriers, from the point of view of carrier, shipper, and regulating agency. He possesses personality and a judicial temperament and is probably as favorably known to both shippers and carriers as any man who could be named.

It is reported that the traffic department of the Chicago Association of Commerce has urged Senator Deneen of Illinois and others to give their official support to Mr. Burchmore's appointment. We here add our word of commendation and trust that Illinois' senators and representatives will take prompt congressional action.

Editorial of the Day

BEATING THE LAW.

[Kansas City (Mo.) Post.]

Chicago's crime survey completed for 1926 shows that out of the list of criminal prosecutions convictions were obtained in only 11.1 per cent of the cases. The balancing percentage of 86.97 in each hundred went free, beating the law to liberty.

That more than 94 per cent of the cases brought to trial after the preliminary processes have eliminated from indictment persons obviously innocent would indicate that the game of beating the law has attained new attitudes of achievement.

Following such a program of elimination that less than 4 per cent of such trials should result in conviction argues for some radical change in criminal procedure, if guilty persons are to be punished at bar. While the figures given are for Cook county, Ill., the results in other sections of the nation are sufficiently in the trend to warrant a general depreciation of the laxity of punitive law and the growing practice of outwitting it.

The practice of "beating the law" is profitable, or may be judged so by external appearances. Successful lawyers with criminal practice and not over-solicitous as to the personnel of their clientele have a solid earmark of prosperity. This is itself not ground for warranted criticism, but the more complete history of the conduct of such cases is self-explanatory and discloses methods worthy of approval of more ethical attorneys as well as of the law observing element of their communities.

Chicago's crime conditions steadily have grown worse since 1926, and even now, with an election resulting adversely to underworld practices, are far from ideal. That such conditions have been encouraged by the known ability of practicing attorneys to beat the law is accepted as truth, necessarily to be taken into consideration when earnest efforts are to be made in remedying the deplorable conditions in many localities, Kansas City not being an exception.

INSANITY AND SUICIDE.

THE question is often raised as to whether insanity is the outstanding cause of suicide. It is sometimes said that insanity is the only cause of suicide; that while the person may not have been insane before, an acute developed attack of insanity drove him to commit the act.

Neither of these urges finds acceptance among medical specialists in the workings of deranged minds. They find that definitely insane persons have but little tendency to suicide. In certain types of insanity this urge does not operate at all. On the other hand, the evidence in many cases of suicide indicates that the mind of the person concerned was operating unusually clearly just preceding the commission of the act.

Dr. F. L. Hoffman, consulting statistician for the Prudential Life Insurance company, has recently published a study of the suicide rate of persons in different occupations. This study shows that occupation, or something connected with it, is a factor. The occupation having the lowest rate was locomotive engineers and firemen, and that having the highest was hotelkeepers and saloonkeepers. Saloonkeepers had a rate which was more than eleven times that of locomotive engineers.

It is difficult to escape the conclusion that occupation may contribute to a disparity that is not striking. The occupations having the low rates, in the Hoffman study, were: Engineers, other trainmen, clergymen, insurance officials and clerks, teachers, iron and steel workers, and printers. At the other end of the line were: Hotelkeepers, saloonkeepers, bartenders, chemists, druggists, physicians, doctors, insurance agents, shopkeepers, and unskilled workers. Some twenty or more occupations came in between.

The drawback to American acceptance of Dr. Hoffman's figures is that they are based solely on British reports, and they are about eighteen years old. For instance, a hotelkeeper in Great Britain is much more of a saloonkeeper than is a hotelkeeper here.

Dr. Hoffman has some other conclusions as to factors in suicides which conclusions are not based solely on British conditions. Among them are that men who work outside are less liable to suicide than are inside workers.

MARtha M. W.

Pity the Poor Sailor.

Harve: He dropped asleep on a park bench and when he awoke it was pitch dark and raining. As he awoke the wet pavement produced the impression of a sheet of water on his muddled brain.

Gosh! he exclaimed, "the sea!"

When Harve had took a header and dropped heavily on the concrete.

Bruised and badly shaken, he scrambled to his feet and measured a surprised voice, "Frozen!"

DO YOU REMEMBER WAY BACK WHEN?

J. STEFFENS, the well known society photographe who passed away a few days ago, has had his first photograph gallery on Archer avenue, between Western avenue and 22nd street (1872-75), and other tintypes pictures of us kids after dressing up with our paper to cover our worn clothes and then did not charge us for the tintypes!—Old Archie Roader.

Every first class barber shop had bathrooms and Saturday afternoon we went there with clean undershirts and drawers (no union suits then), took our bath, and had a shave and haircut, all for 65 cents?—M. J. H. Freeport, Ill.

We saw the first star come out in evening we would make a wish and chant, "Star light, star bright, first star I see tonight; I wish I may, I wish I might, have this wish come true tonight?"—Rowens C.

It was no horrible that I am offering my suggestion with my best wishes.

REPLY.

A sulphur ointment, properly used, is an admirable cure for the kind of itch I have.

Yours is an excellent remedy.

Halfway trying to cure it generally results in failure. When the interested party has been through it once, it becomes almost frantic when I could not seem to entirely cure it.

I finally had all washable clothing boiled, put all other clothes loosely about air tight rooms and burned sulphur candles twice a week for two weeks. I used sulphur salve each night, rubbing all over each night after a warm bath with sulphur soap, and threw a flower of sulphur powder between sheets of each bed. In about three weeks all traces of the very persistent, annoying disease were gone. I found out by eight months of mild treatment that the itch could be rid of only by drastic measures.

It was no horrible that I am offering my suggestion with my best wishes.

HIS PET

12 YEARS NEEDED ON BOULDER DAM JOB, SMOOT SAYS

Points Out Chances for Engineering Errors.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

Washington, D. C., May 6.—[Special.]—Twelve years will be required for the construction of the huge dam at Boulder canyon, according to Senator Smoot [Rep., Utah], who has made a careful study of the engineering problems which form the basis of the pending bill.

It will require three years for preliminary construction work, he thinks, and the concrete work will take at least nine years more. So many uncertainties are involved, he points out, that a single slip in any one of the experimental schemes contemplated will so disarrange the entire program that it cannot be carried through except at a greatly increased expenditure of time and money, if it can be done at all.

110 in Shade, but No Shade.

Some of the engineering assumptions and possibilities of mistaken estimates are thus summarized by Senator Smoot:

"1. It is assumed that the 35 or 40 miles of railroad track, the construction camps, the electric plants, etc., and the three miles of 35 foot diversion tunnels can be completed within the first year. That being done, they are then ready to begin the real task.

"2. That an organization for quarrying and transporting rock can be developed at 10 per cent higher expense than the average developed after years of experience by the largest surface-mining companies.

"3. That highly efficient workmen can be found who can and will work in this isolated spot in eight hour shifts at top speed in a temperature of 110 degrees and 115 degrees (in the shade and no shade).

"4. That more than 25 per cent of the rock dropped into a river 50 to 90 feet in depth and flowing at 15 feet per second will be carried away.

"5. That the most efficient quarrying operation in the world can be developed and carried on under these conditions.

"6. That no flash flood will occur before or after the temporary coffer-dam is completed.

Grave Risk in Coffer-dams.

"7. That the water between the coffer-dams can be pumped out; the sand and silt excavation, the large amounts blasted and excavated; a hard rock foundation uncovered, blasted out, and excavated; the permanent cofferdams, each an enormous dam in itself, built to a height of a maximum of about 140 feet to the water level—all of this work to be done within the five or six months remaining out of a total of eight or nine months, three of which are allowed for the temporary coffer-dams.

"8. That all of this work can be done in a box canyon where there is no room for either men, materials, or equipment, and if the thing is not finished within the schedule the optimistic engineers must be reduced to hoping for better luck the next year, their traps being in the meantime shut down and their organization demoralized.

"9. That a cofferdam does not fail with resultant great loss of life."

great favor, especially the news from Germany, if you would give to this fact. On the occasion of the arrival of the German flag, it would be a very good thing if we could publish in your great paper our people should show on this day the German flag, of course—the black, red and gold flag. MARTIN PETERSON, friend of the German Republic.

NO MONKEY OR SWEDEN,
Chicago, Ill., May 3.—Replies to Mr. [sic] letter in your column of May 1 to tell him he is all wrong. There is nothing to do with the killing of the Bremen, all over the world. The Germans had to have a lot of some kind, and there being monkey or Swedes available, they took them. OLIVER GUTTERWARTH.

ASHAMED OF US.
Chicago, May 4.—Referring to the wise man in the article, I cannot understand why the newspaper people, as you seem to be will humor such a type of man by printing that kind of stuff. Just too bad that a good man like Justice should be ridiculed in such a fashion. I am ashamed of you printing it. RAYMOND F. SWELL.

THEY BLOW YOUR HORN,
Chicago, May 4.—Don't you think it is quite a sensible idea for those who haven't either the courage or sense to try to span the Atlantic with our lips closed tight about the nearly do? It's just such a terrible thing that makes us wonder whether some people are made of. Just as he would rather sit tight, knowing that he was safe and the Irishman face the unknown. In other words, the U. S. A. or any country can be said to be the type of man it is that "Go do something like this—third the courage of crossing the Atlantic and then blast your horn." JUST ANOTHER SCOTSMAN.

HONEST TO GOODNESS MAN,
Chicago, April 30.—In my endeavor to special assessment bill on April 20 in line from $20 to 12½. I returned home minus my bill with indignation. Two men in attendance at line 16, to whom I brought forth some ten bills of piece, and at the request of the men those bills were erased and over at the last minute, hence I could not longer, our clerks having to lunch, leaving us standing and from all that transpired they entirely unfamiliar with the duties of them. Why should our grand be under the jurisdiction of grand, incapable, rotten, and dirty management? Our present administration, both city and county, is to the taxpayers, and to make of Chicago of which we are. My taxes were fully three times amount an intelligent appearance figure them. The utter criminal be hanged upon the taxpayer! I discourage any one owning property. I suggest that we pay Bill Hill out of the city and engage a real goodness man. Max L. K. H.

Gen. Nobile's dirigible Italia landed at King's Bay, Spitzbergen, yesterday after a stormy 610-mile flight from Vadsø, Norway. Polar explorations will be started from King's Bay.

TIES A NOOSE ON NECK TO KEEP HIM AWAKE ON FLIGHT

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., May 6.—(AP)—A noose about his neck was the safeguard installed by Lieut. Royal V. Thomas, endurance flyer, to prevent him from falling asleep in his unaccompanied endurance flight last week.

The rope, Thomas said, was fastened at his back in the cockpit and the other end made into a noose around his neck. If overcome by sleep, he said, the noose would choke him back to wakefulness when his head fell forward. The arrangement, he added, was not brought into use on his last trip.

Thomas said the lessons on endurance flying learned in his last trip would be of value to him in another attempt, which he plans to make within the next week or ten days.

FIRE AT BANDIT TRIO; ONE KILLED

high floods, and army engineers estimate they will be needed only one year every 12 or 15 years. To use them for diversion purposes, however, the control bill provides that the government must acquire flowage rights.

Right there is the point that has led the controversy and President Coolidge's expressed fear of a land scandal.

The $25,000,000 authorized for flood control in the pending bill does not include the flowage rights in the floodways. Nobody has any idea of what these rights will cost.

To travel down the Tenesas and Atchafalaya basins as close to the highways bring out the impression that the visitor most is the great amount of swamp land and morass along the line of the proposed floodways. In the Tenesas basin, 60 per cent of the land between Bird's Point and New Madrid is estimated at $18,500,000. The cost of rights of way and damages for the floodway between Bird's Point and New Madrid is estimated at $18,500,000. The engineers estimate.

Still another factor is the amount of railroad for the moving of tracks, which in the engineer's estimate is set down at $71,800,000.

Timber, Swamp Land.

In the Atchafalaya floodway no less than 80 per cent is figured as timber and swamp land. It's the jungle, with here and there areas of farming land. A short distance back is a beautiful agricultural country, but along the line of the floodway, the bulk is swamp land and morass along the line of the proposed floodways. In the Tenesas basin, 60 per cent of the land between Bird's Point and New Madrid is estimated at $18,500,000. The engineers estimate.

REPORT CLEARS RUM CHASER FOR DISASTER TO S-4

Coast Guard Inquiry Says
Navy Was to Blame.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]
Washington, D. C., May 6.—[Special.]—An official "whitewash" for the commanding officer and crew of the rum-chasing destroyer Paulding was announced by Secretary Pauling today following a coast guard investigation of the disaster to the S-4 off Provincetown last December.

The treasury secretary approved the report of a special board of inquiry which not only absolved Lieutenant Commander J. S. Bayliss, the destroyer commander, for any blame for the ramming of the submarine by his ship but commended his conduct following the collision. It recommended that no disciplinary action be taken. In addition, the coast guard board made the flat assertion that no collision could have occurred if the navy submarine had been flag or notified the commanding officer had displayed a commanding officer of the Paulding that submarines were operating in that vicinity.

The naval court had placed responsibility for the disaster jointly upon the commanding officers of the two ships and specially censured the failure of the Paulding to maintain an efficient lookout.

The coast guard board, however, reported that its investigation showed Lieutenant Commander Bayliss had maintained an efficient lookout and had taken every possible precaution. It had asserted that it was up to the submarine to have made its presence known in some clear and unmistakable manner.

"Women have been informed how to smoke," he said. "And Tom didn't seem to be an extra brilliant scholar. But time has shown that a great man was turned out of a little country school."

"The doctrine of the naval submarine service is that the responsibility rests upon a submerged submarine to keep clear of all surface vessels," the board stated. "It is the duty of the S-4 to keep clear of the Paulding. The cause of the failure of the S-4 to see the Paulding must remain indeterminate, as there is no way to determine whether there was a failure on the part of the mechanical appliances."

WOMEN SMOKERS DON'T KNOW HOW, HE DECIDES AT 90

Celebrating his ninetieth birthday in his home at 215 South Clinton avenue, Oak Park, yesterday, Horace A. Stoddard, veteran of the civil war, survivor of the Chicago fire, and a schoolmate of Thomas A. Edison, recounted his memories and felt qualified to give advice on how to live to a ripe old age.

Eat but two meals a day, abstain from tea, coffee, and all alcoholic liquors, and be temperate in all other conduct—that was his advice on how to live long.

The nonagenarian said he disapproved of the present day short dress and of smoking by women.

"Women have been informed how to smoke," he said. "And Tom didn't seem to be an extra brilliant scholar. But time has shown that a great man was turned out of a little country school."

"We went to a little yellow schoolhouse in Milan," he said. "And Tom didn't seem to be an extra brilliant scholar. But time has shown that a great man was turned out of a little country school."

5-PASSENGER CLUB BROUGHAM—$2750 at Buffalo

A NEW and beautiful Pierce-Arrow, at a new low price. Seats five persons, is offered in several choice color combinations, and sells for $2750 at Buffalo. Freight and tax, extra.

The Club Brougham is a brilliant, powerful motor car with a wonderful reserve of flashing speed. An all-season, all-purpose car. An economical car to maintain, by reason of its freedom from excess weight.

The chassis lubrication system lubricates all vital points at one time by the single pressure of a foot plunger.

The body is full aluminum on a framework of Northern White Ash.

The interior is luxurious, with soft finished upholstery, velvet carpets, thickly plated silver hardware, toggle grips, smoking and vanity case, foot-rest and dome light.

A silver-etched instrument panel, indirectly lighted, beautifully displays speedometer, gasoline gauge, engine temperature gauge, clock and other instruments.

A new and striking design of fender headlamps with small auxiliary lamps, ornaments the front. (Bracket headlamps optional, without charge.)

The stern of the car is also noteworthy—the gasoline tank being concealed by a graceful apron, giving the streamlined low-slung effect which marks the car of the hour.

Unusually commodious, the Club Brougham possesses one of the widest rear seats known to automobile construction. Its comfort is sustained by long, semi-elliptic springs of silico-manganese steel.

Other features of the Club Brougham, all part of the regular equipment, are: Houdaille Shock Absorbers (set of four). Trunk on rear. Six-ply balloon tires.

Summing up: A smart, luxurious motor car, complete in the finest detail, irresistibly priced, and—a Pierce-Arrow!

POLICE ACCUSED OF CONCEALING CRIME REPORTS

Chiefs Doctor Records to Make Showing, Charge.

in Burnham, Caponeville, Chicago Heights and other places in Cook county outside Chicago. Al Capone and Jack Zuta, who recently returned to the city, and others interested in Chicago vice, were said, however, to have an interest in the country town vice as well.

No "Get Out" Order.

As far as any of the agencies interested in civic welfare and reform could learn, there has been no effort made to "get out" any of the gamblers, alky syndicate, beer peddlars or procurers out of the city or out of the county. The reports agreed that while a temporary "close down" order might have been issued there was no order to "get out."

A gambler's inquiry has revealed an enormous source of income for some of the city's racketeers. Last week, just before the "close down" order was issued, an estimate was made that 6,000 slot machines were in operation in Chicago alone.

These machines are said to have been regulated to make 80 per cent profit, which was split 50-50 between the one who had the privilege and the one who had the place. Some machines had profits as high as $50 a day.

Reid Deals Out Power.

The slot machine "kings" of Chicago are known only as Kennedy and O'Brien, operating principally on the south side. They are said to be deriving their power through Dr. William H. Reid, ward committeeman of the Sixteenth ward.

Since last Thursday many of the slot machines have been put in storage, according to reports. Martin Levine is said to have hundreds of them stored at 4191 South Halsted street. A colored man named Martin, who lives in the vicinity of Lake and Lincoln streets, was reported to have at least 100 of the machines at 21 South Western avenue. A man named Katz has a large number of the machines at 521 South Huron avenue, the investigators stated.

Long Piss" Julius Ankster and Marty Guiffroye had the slot machine privileges on the far west and north west sides. Jack Gusick, in cooperation with Capone, had the privilege in the loop through the courtesy of Dan Serritella, the ward committeeman, the reports declare.

Saltis Controls District.

Joe Saltis and a partner named Hackett controlled the privileges in the south end of the county; Capone and Gusick in the southwest part of the county.

After the election of Mayor Thompson the banquet season started and police captains were given numerous tickets to sell. They were able to dispose of them through the aid of slot machine operators, the reports stated, and when the assessments for the America First Foundation, and later the campaign assessments, were levied, the slot machine operators were again the ones who are credited with keeping the police department from being financial losers.

Beer Racket Given Place.

Little by little the appearance of slot machines was more frequent, and they came to be associated with the beer privileges. Dan Jackson had both in the 2d and 3d wards, as well as controlling the policy games.

Joe Gordon, market master and once involved in vote frauds, and Frank Morley, market master and friend of Morris Eller, had certain districts on the west side. Klondike O'Donnell, back from prison, had another territory.

"Red" Bolton and Willie Druegan, brother of Terry, had the right of way in the "Valley" district. The syndicate headed by Matt Kolb was supreme in the north end of the county, and "Jew Kid" Grabiner had the nearest crap game to the loop—57 East 18th street—craps being barred downtown.

Then the punchboards made their debut. One racketeer boasted of having 100 swell joints, elaborately fitted up for roulette and like pastimes. They were found to be a gold mine and immediately a flood of them was on the market.

Bromoan Closing Order.

The "swell joints," elaborately fitted up for roulette and like pastimes, didn't care much for such competition. The New Southern club at 14th and Michigan, the $1 club at 111 Randolph street, Jack Hogan's place in the City Hall square, and a few others were bemoaning the hard luck when along came Deputy Commissioner Alcock's closing order.

An explanation was that open gambling provides jobs for all the city's gunmen as guards in the various bars and consequently there is a decrease of pay roll robberies, safe blow-ins, bank and store stickups, kidnappings and like crimes of violence. But business men said open gambling deprived their usual customers of money for purchases and the public's money was being diverted from the ordinary business channels into the racketeers' coffers.

The night clubs received a jolt from the government, but the beer joints had not been bothered until a rather vague notice to the police department became known. As far as it appears to be that whenever a beer load or boozie cargo is seized in transit, the prosecution shall be turned over to the government. No raids are contemplated by the police, as far as could be learned.

The vice mongers were also found to be secure in the belief they would not be disturbed. Zuta, Capone, Dennis Cooney and others were expecting no difficulty as it was reported, they thought they had made the proper arrangements.

ORIENTAL RUGS

By SARKIS H. NAHIGIAN

(No. 8 of a Series)

AND SO, each plays his part," writes the bard immortal. Kaleidoscopic is the change from grandma's day to the debutante's garden of golden dreams. Posterity shares with us the fruits of our labors . . . And especially is this true of Oriental Rugs; as one enjoys their luxuriosness one cannot refrain from a pleasant appraisal of the future. Yes, Oriental Rugs last a lifetime—your joys become their joys—the joys of your children, and their children. Indeed, a charming blend of sentiment and economy . . . Thirty-eight years devoted to the buying and selling of Oriental rugs exclusively have rounded out a "customers-service" that is exceptional in every sense of the word. But you shall be the judge. Will you not put us to the test?

RUGS

Cleaned, Stored and Repaired
We conduct a perfectly equipped department of expert cleaning, repairing and storing of Oriental Rugs. Charges moderate; absolute safety and satisfaction assured.

MEXICO SWINGS BACK TO RULE OF ARMY DICTATOR

Calles and Obregon Hold
Reins of Junta.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

The tide of communism which threatened to engulf Mexico during the worst periods of the revolution has definitely receded and the country today is passing into the final stages of re-establishment under a military dictatorship similar in many aspects to the long Diaz regime.

Communism has left its wake the debris of agricultural and industrial disaster, and at least one heritage for the future years in an agrarian program of confiscation and expropriation from which there is no retreat.

The estates which have been broken up to satisfy the land hunger of the poor probably will never be restablished in their old condition. The peasant who now owns half of the cultivated land of Mexico in redistributions of ancient Indian holdings [18 per cent of total expropriations] and definitive and provisional dotaions, while no small portion of the remaining cultivated land has been rendered useless by alienation of water rights.

Rule by Small Group.

The new dictatorship is not individual. It is the rule of a small group, the Sonora Junta. The principle of "no reflection," for which most revolutions in Mexico during the last hundred years have been fought, receives lip service in the plan to rotate the presidency among the strong men of the Sonora group, which formed the backbone of the Madero revolution, which defeated Huerta, which thrashed Villa for Carranza and then turned on the old "first chief" to remove him when he tried to check the Junta's growing power.

Calles and Obregon, the two outstanding figures of the Junta and the only men of iron the revolution has produced, came to the top of the heap by elimination and the survival of the most ruthless; only the accident of a pistol shot or a lethal dose can prevent the election of Obregon to the presidency in July. Despite all rumors of differences between these two men, Calles is ready to step down in December at the close of his four year term as president.

Obregon, the "honest sin bravo"—one armed man—will take office for a period of six years, after which, unless some strong man appears in the Junta, Calles would return for a six year term. How good such plans are depends entirely on the ability of the two men to retain their control over the army.

Opposing Candidates Slain.

Campaigning for the presidency against Obregon has proved a highly hazardous undertaking thus far in Mexico. The candidates who, until now, announced their intention to run for the presidential office departed from this world suddenly and violently within a brief time. Life is the stake which the opposition politician places on the table when he sits at the presidential game.

If Mexican history is a good criterion, however, this very condition of ruthless dictatorship will make for stability of government. The Calles-Obregon Junta cannot be called conservative in any sense of the word, but these Mexican leaders are far from being the radicals they were a few years ago.

I have been asked why backward nations in revolution adopt the most advanced of revolutionary theories and practices—doctrines which have no chance of fulfillment even in the most highly developed society. I believe it is because leaders of such revolutions have not the educational background or the understanding of the history of philosophy necessary to understand more than the attractive rudiments of revolutionary doctrine.

They read through the A. B. Cs of socialism and communism without first having studied the historical philosophy on which radical tenets are based. Division of wealth has an overpowering attraction for the half-educated man. To the Mexican person the idea of sharing the immense holdings of Gen. Terrazas, who himself did not know the confines of his millions upon millions of acres, was a torch pointing a broad path to future ease and luxury—an attractive as the idea of dividing John D. Rockefeller's or J. P. Morgan's wealth is to the average callow American radical.

The leaders of the revolutions of the last thirteen years seized upon this desire as a tool to their own ends.

The revolution of Madero was not essentially a revolution for the improvement of conditions in Mexico. Priestley, in his history of Mexico, caught the true spirit of the movement when he described it as "an explosion of the pent-up hatreds of the lowly against the better bred."

It remained for Carranza to seize on the land hunger of the peasant as a tool for revolution, and the cry for division of the great estates was first effectively raised by him; by him it was first put in practice, and he left to future administrations the necessity of continuing it or falling victim to it. In Mexico today, one lives if he attempted to reverse the policy laid down by the bearded "first chief." Obregon and Calles got rid of him, but they did not get rid of the load he placed on the back of the Mexican revolution.

Land Question Still Serious.

Today the Mexican leaders are face to face with the necessity of damming the great flood of peasant demands first raised for political purposes. They are choosing whether the land hunger, both natural and that artificially stimulated for political ends, has about spent itself.

Other communist doctrines which showed such bright promises in the speeches of Mariano, Leon, and other responsible ministers have failed and been forgotten, but the land question remains. Its settlement is the most important problem the Mexican government now faces, and the United States, whose citizens are seriously involved, is attempting to assist in the solution.

As for the rest, I remember as a boy reading the Birmingham speech of James Russell Lowell in defense of democracy, and its essence has stuck in my mind. Lowell was not afraid of the bogey of communism, nor he has a property interest in the animal on which he sits astride. The Sonora Junta has a large property interest in the Mexican horse, and where once it rode with a loose rein, today it is using the curb.

Another article by Mr. Clayton, who has just returned from Mexico, will appear in tomorrow's Tribune.

Couple Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Humphrey, 444 Berkeley avenue, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at their old homestead, Meadowlands, Wild Rose, Wis., today. Mr. Humphrey was born in Waukesha county in 1847, grandson of John Hughes, one of the first settlers of Wisconsin. Mrs. Humphrey was born in Springwater, one of the first white children in that settlement. They lived for many years in an old log house after their marriage in 1878.

U. S. WILL SPEND $8,000,000 FOR FOREST LANDS

Seeks 400,000 Acres in Northern Michigan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 6.—[Special.]—Substantial additions to national forests in the upper states as well as in New England and the south are assured under the McNary-Woodruff act which, signed by President Coolidge a few days ago, authorizes the appropriation of $8,000,000 for the purchase of national forest lands during the next three years.

Under the terms of the act $2,000,000 will become available on July 1, 1928; $3,000,000 on July 1, 1929, and $3,000,000 on July 1, 1930. As a result of the passage of the act at this time, the government will be able to exercise an option which was to have expired on June 1 next, and add to the White mountain national forest in New Hampshire 25,500 acres in the famous Waterville area, which includes 200 acres of the finest virgin spruce left in New England.

Kills Self in Woman's Home as She Spurns Him

Walter Liberski, 38, butcher boy, at 1558 West Division street, shot and killed himself yesterday in the home of Mrs. Frances Lesnicki, 1313 North Lincoln street. He told police she had turned down his offers of marriage because, though divorced, from her husband, she is not divorced.

You never know the day nor hour when YOUR car may crash into an accident like this. Better have on your side a strong, sound Insurance Company like the Liberty Mutual to shield you from staggering loss.

"My Automobile Insurance is in a Sound, Well-Managed Company"

HELLO, Tom. I see you have the old bus out again. I've got to reinsurance mine pretty soon, and I understand you get insurance for only 80% of the standard cost. What's the secret?"

"Well, George, it's simply good management by my Company, the Liberty Mutual. Believe me, the management is all-important to an insurance company's service and reliability. For example:

"The Liberty Mutual is owned by its policyholders—the men and women whom it insures. It is strictly a mutual organization united to secure protection at cost.

"The Company is also operated by its policyholders, under Directors whom they appoint and under insurance experts whom the Directors employ. These Directors are some of the biggest business men in the country, and every one of them carries Liberty Mutual insurance."

"How does this management benefit service?"

"By dealing directly with the policyholder—in his interest. If you have an accident, you simply call your local Liberty Mutual claim man and turn the whole case over to him. No red tape. Nobody 'in-between.' Since the policyholders own the Company, the Company is always on the policyholder's side. Of every 200 Liberty Mutual cases, 199 are fairly and speedily settled out of court."

"Where does the 20% saving come in?"

"From the same sensible system of management. All policies are sold through the Liberty Mutual's own representatives on a 'factory-to-consumer' basis. No commissions to outsiders. Moreover, the Company insures only careful, reputable drivers—the type of persons who don't pile up big accident losses."

"As a result of these savings, the Liberty Mutual has always paid its policyholders a yearly cash dividend of at least 20% of their premiums—over $19,000,000 in 16 years. Yet it charges the same initial rates that other reliable companies charge, and maintains the very highest degree of protection and personal service."

"You have convinced me, Tom. The benefits from that kind of management look mighty good to me. This year, I'm going to insure my car with the Liberty Mutual."

The Chicago Tribune

Makes available ONE BILLION DOLLARS' worth of LIFE INSURANCE to Tribune Readers

Get One of These Special Policies for Every Member of Your Family

NO MEDICAL EXAMINATION!

THIS astonishing Policy represents, in the opinion of the Tribune's actuarial and legal counsel, the greatest LIFE INSURANCE value obtainable anywhere in America for the money. It marks the beginning of another tremendously helpful service exclusively to Tribune Readers—a service of which every eligible person should immediately take advantage.

Three years ago the Chicago Tribune offered its readers the greatest ACCIDENT Insurance opportunity in America: a $7,500 Travel Accident Policy with increasing value to $11,250.00, for only $1.00 a Year!

This was and still is the biggest Accident Insurance value ever offered anywhere in America. More than $925,000.00 in cash has been paid to holders and beneficiaries of these Tribune $1.00 Accident Policies. The issuance of these accident policies has cost the Tribune more than $400,000.00 of its own money.

Now! The colossal success of the Tribune's Accident Insurance has moved the Tribune to make available to its readers, LIFE INSURANCE—to protect themselves and their dependents against death resulting from sickness as well as accidents.

This is not a common LIFE Insurance Policy. The Tribune, in seeking the utmost value at the lowest cost, employed at its own expense, actuaries and legal counsel for the development of this policy. They investigated numerous types of LIFE Insurance Policies issued by various large companies, analyzing and comparing their provisions. Now, after months of preparation, the new Special $1,000.00 LIFE INSURANCE Policy Plus is ready—and, in the opinion of counsel, represents the greatest LIFE INSURANCE value of its kind. It may be obtained only by readers of the Chicago Tribune.

Think of it! For only $1.00 a month with coupon below AND WITHOUT MEDICAL EXAMINATION—you may obtain one of these Special LIFE Insurance Policies, which pays $1,000.00 PLUS! The amount of Insurance varies according to your age at the time of death. But In no event is it less than $1,000.00! For example at age 30 it is $1,296.00.

And note this very important provision in the policy: in ADDITION to the LIFE INSURANCE benefit, it provides at no extra cost, Total and Permanent Disability benefits. This means that should you become totally and permanently disabled due to any cause whatsoever, while your policy is in force, the Insurance is payable to you, as stated in the policy, while living.

We call your particular attention to the fact that no Medical Examination is necessary in applying for this Special LIFE INSURANCE! Just send the coupon below with $1.00 as directed. Read coupon carefully.

These Special Policies are issued by the Federal Life Insurance Company of Chicago through special arrangement with the Chicago Tribune.

This offer is open to persons between the ages of 10 and 44, at nearest birthday, in normal health, living in the United States or Canada. If you are not in normal health or are not a standard insurable risk, please do not apply.

The premium of $1.00 a month is the same to everyone between these ages. After the Policy anniversary nearest age 45 of the Insured the $1.00 a month policy automatically converts itself into a $1,000 straight Life Insurance Policy, without any medical examination or further obligation, other than the payment of a premium of $2.50 a month instead of $1.00 a month. Beginning with age 46, this policy also provides Guaranteed Cash, Loan and Paid-up Life Insurance values, which means the policy has a cash or loan value.

This policy is non-cancellable by the Insurance company, if and when issued, except for fraud or misrepresentation. You are thus assured of its protection so long as you continue to pay the monthly premium.

The new Special LIFE Insurance Policy is shown here. Read it carefully. This offer is a distinct service restricted to readers of the Tribune. You do not have to subscribe to the Tribune to get it. Merely certify that you are a Tribune reader by sending coupon below, together with $1.00 as directed. Only one policy will be issued to any one person.

If you wish to pay a full year's premium send check or money order for $11.00 instead of $1.00. You will receive a receipt for a whole year's premium.

The Chicago Tribune's arrangement with the Federal Life Insurance Company provides for the issuance of only a limited number of these Special LIFE INSURANCE Policies. No more than One Billion Dollars' worth will be issued. All applications are subject to acceptance or rejection by the Federal Life Insurance Company at its home office in Chicago.

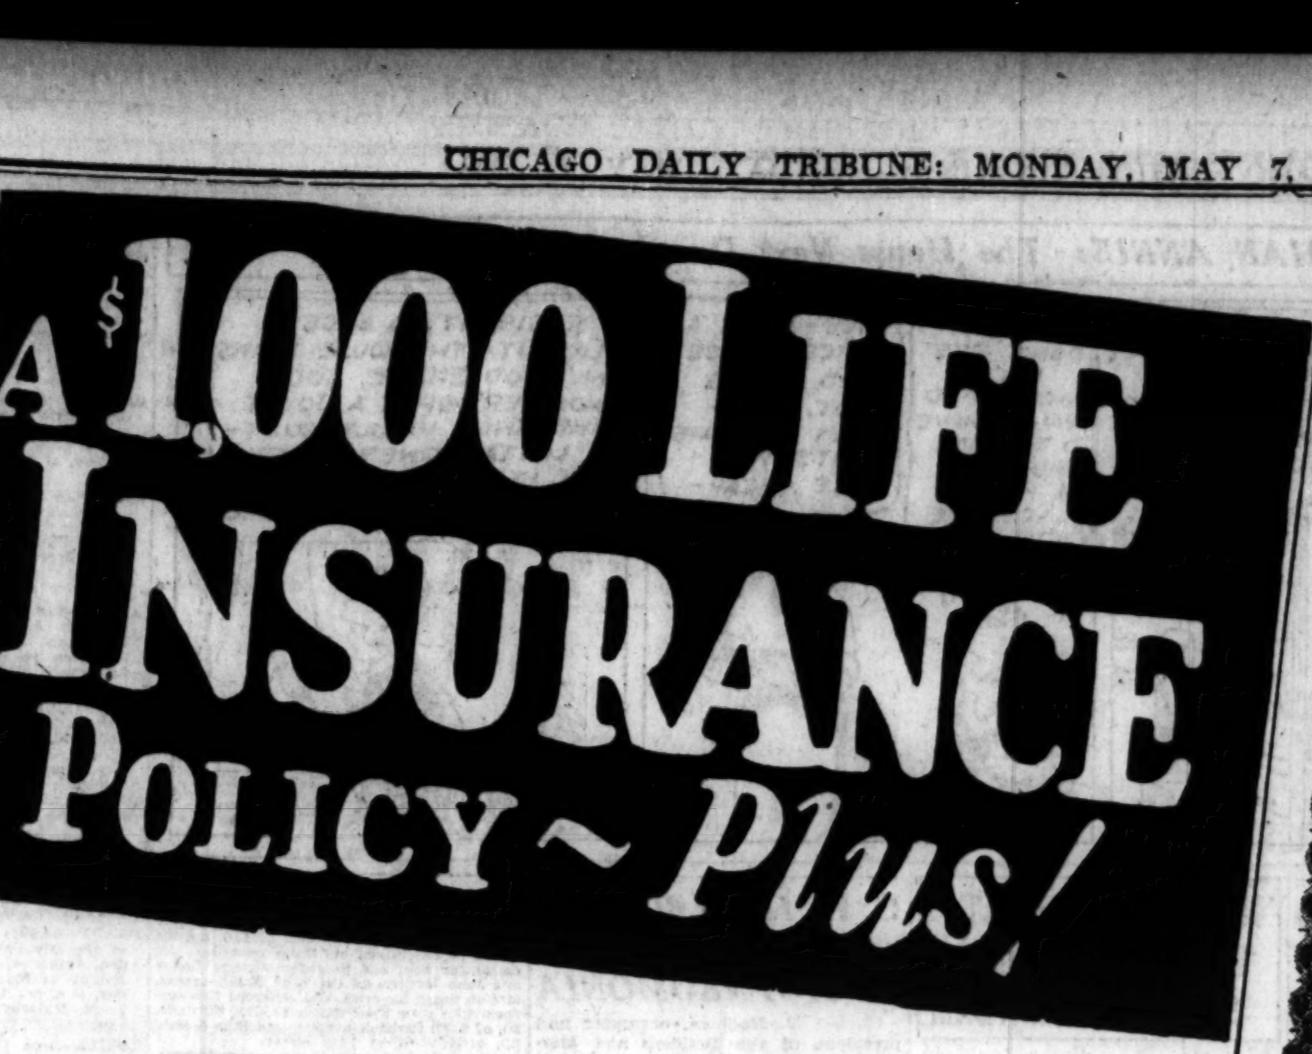

Note: You may obtain this policy in addition to any other policy you may now hold in the Federal Life Insurance Company.

This is an extraordinary opportunity for Tribune readers to acquire LIFE INSURANCE at low cost. Every eligible man, woman, boy and girl should apply at once. Clip the coupon and send to "Special Life Insurance Dept." Federal Life Insurance Company, 168 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, with $1.00 as directed.

LOWEST COST

Our own independent actuaries and legal counsel who prepared this Policy after a careful study, tell us it is the greatest Life Insurance protection for the money ever offered to the public.

Elmer Touched by Sentiment as Series Is Ended

But Program Also Opens Annual Music Week.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The last of the New York 8:15 to 9:15 winter series of concerts through W-G-N was, as promised, a gala occasion, with the many noted soloists at their best. This concert also auspiciously served as the official radio opening of music week.

Without any orchestra prelude, for the orchestra assumed the role of accompanist only in this concert, Charles Hackett, tenor, was introduced, and immediately struck the dexterous and forcible tour de force atmosphere with an aria from "La Gioconda," singing this with great impressiveness.

Toscha Seidel, violinist, played three selections, in which his handling of expression alone stamps him as an artist.

Then came Richard Bonelli, richly resonant and commanding baritone, duplicating the fine impression he made in this concert series of two weeks ago.

Allen McQuhae, tenor, showed in his two songs that he is again in splendid voice. Mr. McQuhae, assuming the rôle of announcer, said with reference to Announcer Graham McNamee, that "I am turning the tables on him." Mr. McNamee sang "Little Bettees" by O'Hearn; "Meet Me at Midnight," and "What a Wonderfull Mess" by La Guardia.

Arne Dahl, soprano, and William Evans, bass-baritone, winners of last year's radio audition contest, sang a duet from Mozart's "Don Giovanni."

Kathryn Melise, Chicago opera mezzo-soprano, in her three songs was very lovely in her middle and lower tones, and her versatility displayed her as an excellent interpreter of songs of varying mood and character.

A touch of sentiment entered when a male quartet closed its group with a spiritual "There's One More Room to Cross." Immediately a deeper note of sentiment entered when William Simmons, tenor, sang "In the Gleaming" and Tosha "Good-By." The concert closed with a duet by Maria Kurenko and Richard Bonelli. One disappointment was the non-appearance of Anna Case, soprano.

Jock Hutchison, golf genius, who astounds many a gallery, fell for misfortune's flight, and Harland "Fred" Rohm, The Tribune's golf expert, had to pinch hit for him in his announced talk from W-G-N at 8:15.

FRANCE TO OFFER A FIVE PER CENT UNLIMITED LOAN

New York, May 6.—Plans of the French government to effect improving changes in its financial status assumed active form today with the announcement that American banking houses tomorrow will begin receiving subscriptions to a French republic 75 year 5 percent internal loan.

The loan, offered in unlimited amount, will be used to pay off advances received by the French government from the Bank of France, to retire short term government obligations and to provide a means of withdrawing from circulation a large amount of paper franc currency quoted at about 25 to the dollar.

Bonds dated May 10, 1933, due May 10, 2033, will be priced at $100 francs for each 1,000 franc bond to yield 5.50 per cent, and will be offered in this country by A. Iselin & Co. and Brown Brothers & Co. at the issue price, about $35.49 under current exchange rates.

An issue of $6,000,000 5 per cent gold debentures of the United States and British International Company, Ltd., will be offered tomorrow by Harris, Forbes & Co. at $95 and interest, to yield more than 5.40 per cent. The company, a Maryland corporation, holds investments representing more than $6 million.

Another offering to be made tomorrow is an issue of $1,500,000 4 per cent park bonds of the city of Louisville, Ky.

Lay Corner Stone for New Bethel Lutheran Day School

The cornerstone was laid yesterday for the new day school of the Bethel Evangelical Lutheran church at Springfield avenue and Hirsch street. A forty piece band from Concordia college, River Forest, accompanied the community singing. Addresses were made by the Rev. H. Boester and the Rev. Alexander Ulrich. The Bethel men mixed chorus, directed by A. Nottke, and the St. Luke's male choir, directed by M. Freiser, participated in the program.

ARMED ROBES STOLEN GOOD.

Four men and a woman, all Mexicans, were arrested where an alleged headquarters was maintained for the disposal of stolen goods. Property valued at $5,000 was recovered.

DEAN WOODWARD IS MADE ACTING HEAD AT U. OF C.

Speculation began yesterday as to the educator who will succeed Dr. Max Mason as president of the University of Chicago. Dr. Mason's resignation, to accept a place as head of the division of natural sciences of the Rockefeller foundation, was announced on Saturday.

So far as is known, no steps to choose a successor have been taken by the board of trustees of the university. The usual procedure is for the trustees and a committee of the faculty to look into the qualifications of available candidates before making a selection. While this is being done Vice President Frederic Woodward, chairman of the Board of Merchants' Trust and Savings bank, will be acting president.

Dean Woodward said last night that he had not been officially notified of the resignation or when it would take effect, but that he assumed Dr. Mason would retain the presidency until the end of the present college term.

Chicago Labor Pays Tribute to W. A. Neer; Rites Today

Hundreds of members of labor unions and their families yesterday paid past the bier of W. A. Neer, Chicago union leader, in the headquarters of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union at 220 South Ashland avenue. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. today in Ashland and Van Buren on street and Ashland avenues. Burial will be at Oakridge cemetery. Mr. Neer died aboard ship on May 1 while returning from a visit to the Hawaiian Islands. He was 60 years old. He was president of the teamsters' joint council and secretary-treasurer of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union. His widow and two daughters survive him.

PATRICK GANNON, 39 years old, financial secretary of local No. 4 of the Hodcarriers' union, died yesterday of heart disease at his home, 4206 W. 11th street.

Memorial Service Held for Miss Ella Boynton

Services honoring the memory of the late Miss Ella Boynton, president of the Chicago branch of the Woman's International League for Peace and Freedom, held yesterday at the Woman's City club, were attended by scores of her friends and acquaintances of many years. Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, with which Miss Boynton was connected for a number of years, presided. Eulogies on her life and achievements were offered by Miss Addams, Mrs. B. F. Langdon, president of the Woman's City club; Miss Mary McDowell; Mrs. Willa B. Laird, former president of the League of Women Voters; Forum; Mrs. Edward Lowenthal, president of the Chicago Woman's Aid; Prof. Paul Douglass of the University of Chicago, and others. Miss Boynton died on April 13.

RAIN ADDS MENACE TO EARTHEN LEAK IN SOUTH CAROLINA DAM

Table Rock Cove, S. C., May 6.—(UP)—

A cold rain today added to the menace created by a leak in the earthen dam across Saluda creek here which developed two days ago, sending thousands of residents of the lowlands to temporary havens on hillsides.

Confidence that the dam would hold and gradually release the waters in the lake behind it was expressed today by H. W. Perry, superintendent of the Greenville City Water works, in charge of crews working to prevent a break.

Armed deputies were stationed on top of the dikes to hold back oncoming Sunday night.

Engineers were encouraged by the steady fall of water from the lake through the drains opened with great difficulty yesterday, the level of the lake falling 18 inches since 5:30 p.m. yesterday, or more than 1 inch an hour.

A. M. E. BISHOP PLEADS FOR OLD TIME RELIGION

5,000 Attend Opening of 28th Conference.

The first service of the 28th session of the African Methodist Episcopal church opened yesterday morning as 5,000 men and women rose in the Eighth regiment armory at 35th street and Giles avenue and sang.

There appears to be no trace of modernism in this quadrennial conference. From the moment Bishop John A. Gregg of South Africa read the Scripture, until Bishop W. Sampson Brooks of West Africa completed his dramatic appeal for the rebirth of the old time religion, there were shouts of "Amen," and a roar of religious fervor greeted the climax of the sermon.

Tells of Faith in Prayer.

Bishop Brooks, who is six and a half feet tall, made an imposing platform figure. He told of his faith in prayer which had been strengthened during his year of African service.

Bishop Gregg, former president of Wilberforce university, the oldest Negro college in the United States, appealed to the assembled delegates in his sermon "not to forget the faith of the founders of the African Methodist church nor the missions in Africa, our brothers and sisters."

Open Business Session Today.

This young bishop was hailed as the leader of a new day in his church by his warning to the bishops, general officers and laity to lay aside selfishness and worldly things and seek divine guidance.

The official business of the three week's session of the quadrennial conference will set under way this afternoon. The morning session will open with prayer by Bishop W. T. Vernon, former registrar of the United States treasury under President Taft. The official opening sermon will be preached at 10:30 a. m. by Bishop W. D. Johnson. The holy communion will be conducted by Bishops John Hurst, Florida; J. H. Jones, Ohio; A. J. Carey, Missouri; A. L. Gaines, Illinois, and R. C. Ransome, New York.

Duce Lauds Girls After
Athletic Meet in Rome

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
ROME, May 6.—Premier Benito Mussolini today spoke at the Rome stadium after distribution of prizes to the winning teams at the first athletic meet for young Italian girls.

He said: "You have offered Rome an incomparable spectacle of grace, force, and discipline. Rome has admired you. Italy is proud of you. Keep your faith, raise your flags, and salute Rome, Italy, and Fascism." The Vatican has protested vigorously against athletic competition among girls.

Dry Leader 'Fears' Smith
Will Be Next President

Kansas City, Mo., May 6. (U. P.)—Unless something unforeseen happens, I fear Al Smith will be the next President of the United States," declared Ernest H. Cherrington, president of the World's League Against Alcohol and research secretary of the Anti-Saloon league. He is attending the sessions of the Methodist church general conference.

FALL FROM LADDER FATAL.

A fall from a ladder five weeks ago is believed to have caused the death of Gus Johnson, painter, 53 years old, 1146 West Adams street, who was found dead in bed yesterday morning by Mrs. Jessie Kain, his landlady.

Listen to the Woman who couldn't go shopping with her mother

"... We just had to give it up... We never seemed to agree on anything... She wanted me to have a plain white refrigerator... I bought a green one... She thought my house should be Early American, but I'm not Early American... I'm Late American!... Of course she thinks my clothes are too short and scanty... And she wanted us to have a dark blue sedan, not a yellow roadster... She says she likes my silver pattern, but I know that she would never buy one like it... And as long as she lives, she will think that red hats are not quite nice... Mother's a dear... But we do our shopping separately."

... that standard American watches would be designed by famous French couturiers?

Alert and astute business men are deliberately encouraging the discontent of the consumer with things as they are. They are stimulating new buying by calling in the artist and the designer to enhance the attraction of the commonest products. They do not consider that the demand for colorful and delightful merchandise is outrageous. They are diversifying and decorating staple, standard lines.

"Nation's Business tells me what to expect, not what to do," writes an appreciative reader. And in the May issue this market of discontent is discussed by an eminent business man and economist. Other leaders who note and chart every buying change contribute their views on related subjects.

Add 30 other articles and editorials to these, inject a dash of humor and a touch of speed... and you have an absorbing prologue to the monthly drama of American business... A moving and magnificent spectacle that has no counterpart in fiction.

was a factor in two runs scored by the Cubs in the first inning, the second double, in the ninth, was wasted, and the third double was the big thing in breaking up the ball game in the eleventh.

Gonzales' Hit Ties Score.

Now about Mike Gonzales. His single with two out in the eighth, drove in Hack Wilson with the tying run just at a time when Lester Sweetland seemed to have the gang in a most docile and unprofitable mood. Without Mike's single there would have been no Chicago heroes.

After Mike had put the Cubs back in the ball game there were no serious threats on either side until the windup, which was as follows:

Malone struck out. Beck singled to center and went to third on Maguire's double. Cuyler was given an intention pass to fill the bases. The game was over when Hack Wilson sent a sacrifice fly to Williams.

At the start of the Cub's offensive it appeared the contest would be a breeze for Mr. Wrigley's help. Beck walked and went to third on Maguire's double. Both runners scored on Cuyler's single. Then Wilson hit into a double play and Stevenson was thrown out by Friborg.

Phils Forge to Front.

In the fourth the Cub's lead was cut in half when Wrightstone made a home inside the park, and in the fifth the visitors took the lead, 3 to 2, as a result of a base on balls, errors by Gonzales and Maguire, and a single by Stevenson which scored Sweetland and Thompson.

Butler tied the score in the Cub's half of the inning. He was hit by a pitched ball, sacrificed to second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored when Maguire forced Beck, who had walked.

The seventh marked the demise of Blake as previously described. Then, in the eighth, Gonzales put on his act, following an unusual coincidence. With one down and two like Butler was hit by a pitched ball and went to second. Stevenson's infield act. And again, like Butler, he got third on a wild pitch. Then Mike produced his single and the score again was tied.

There was little wasted hitting by the Cubs and they were quite tame by the fact that the opposing pitcher made ten assists in nine innings, and in one of the major league record.

The Phils conclude their stay this afternoon and probably will be opposed by Guy Bush. The Brooklyn club, which had a lot of fun leading the league for about a week, will come in tomorrow.

NOTES OF THE CUBS

Twenty thousand customers defied pneumonia by sitting through the contest. It wasn't so bad for those who took Irving Berlin's advice and sought the sunshine. But in the shade: Nothing less than bleak.

When Thompson, Phillips' second baseman, was up in the eleventh with the count 3 and 2, he forgot himself and hurled a lot of language at Umpire Jorda. He got bounced and Sand went in to look at the throw. Hainie walked.

Maurice and Cuyler, as the saying goes, twice needed a traffic cop to direct their actions. The first time Mike bumped into Freddie, the second snacker dropped the ball and Thompson got credit for a double. The second time he did it Freddie had a hard time keeping from getting provoked. But he held the ball.

The fan who appeared at the park Saturday in a straw hat gave up yesterday. He conceded that 90 degrees afternoon we had Thursday was a hoax after all. And well he might.

No authors travel with the Phils, making it difficult to obtain personal data such as who is going to pitch and why. When it appeared that Sweetland might be a hero, one writer found it necessary to wire Philadelphia for his front name. It is Lester, alias Sugar. Lester is left handed.

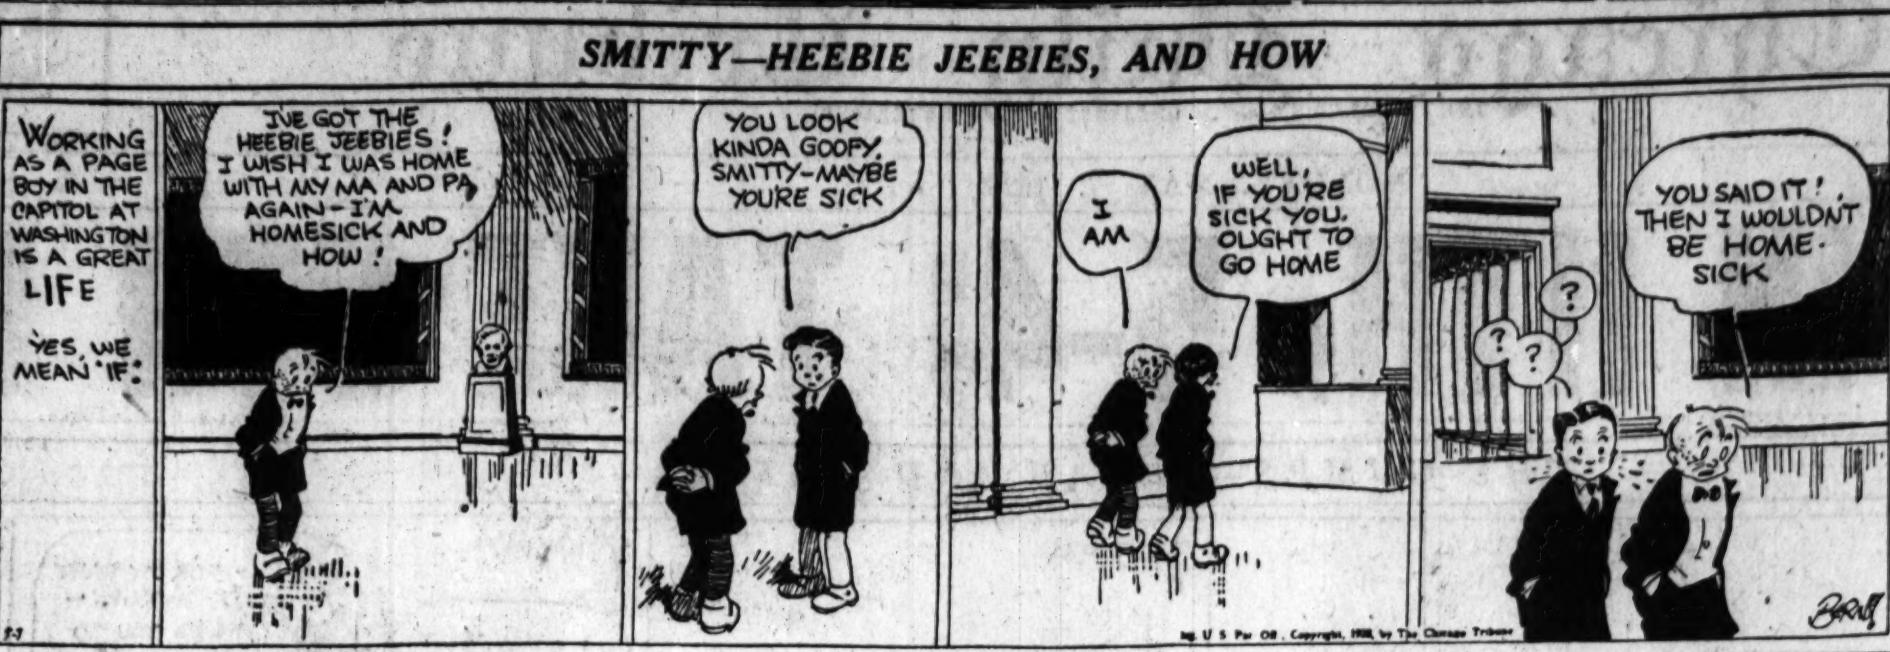

Jim Wilson's vigor is an inspiration. The Phils' catcher keeps going all the time just like he expected to cut world's series dough. He must room with Manager Shotton.

Wrightstone got his home run inside the park because the ball wouldn't stop bouncing after Cuyler and Wilson had caught up with it.

The eighth, ninth and tenth innings Malone struck out six of the eleven men who faced him.

Crego, Whist Champion 20 Years Ago, Dies at Aurora

Aurora, Ill., May 6.—[Special]—Irving Crego, an Aurora lawyer, who twenty years ago was a duplicate whist champion in the United States and in the first decade took rank as one of the bridge whist experts of the west, is dead at his home here. Mr. Crego was a member of the University of Wisconsin football squad in the days of Coach Phil King and the traditional Cardinal heroes, Larson, Cochemis, and Curtis.

JACK HIGGINS

Owner, W. J. Curran, Breeder, Fall T. China, Trainer, W. J. Curran.

The Louisiana Derby winner and a route runner that has been tested. He is a son of Sweep-Fiant, and his grandsons, Ben Brush, won the Kentucky Derby.

Jack Higgins' ancestors also include Domino and Lexington. Route running qualities rather than speed here. He has won on both fast and muddy tracks.

The colt's 3 year old record was not bad at all. He started 12 times and won but one race. He was nine times out of the money. He dropped from a $3,000 rating into the plater class, and was secured by his present owner on a claim.

He has been beaten many times by cheap horses. The first good race he ever ran was in the Louisiana Derby. This race was at a mile and an eighth. His time was 1:52, and he was running as fast in the last eighth as he was at the beginning. The mile and a quarter of the Derby won't be too much for him. He didn't show much form in the early spring Maryland races.

NOTES OF THE CUBS

Twenty thousand customers defied pneumonia by sitting through the contest.

It wasn't so bad for those who took Irving Berlin's advice and sought the sunshine. But in the shade: Nothing less than bleak.

Both Inselman and Woolf have impressed the crowds at Aurora with their ability to beat home winners. Each ride a strong finish and they also have shown unusual ability also getting away from the barrier.

All attendance and mutual betting handling records were shattered during the first five days of the new season.

It is the first time since the Aurora Jockey Club found a place on the spring schedule that good weather prevailed.

Dugan Poles Home Run.

Except for a 2 year old straggler which brings a fast band into action, all of today's races carry the claiming clause. Limit fields will go to the post in each event, and the competition is likely to be keen.

A number of horses and several jockeys will arrive today, coming from Lexington, where the spring season ended Saturday. The big stable of J. C. Ellis arrived from Lexington

LAWS NO BAR TO FREE COMMERCE

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, May 6.—Banks interviewed today said they anticipate no inconvenience to trade and commerce as a result of the British bill prohibiting northern Ireland banks from paying out or circulating Irish Free State bank notes. Similar legislation has been passed by the Dail Eireann.

Irish State notes will be accepted from southern people making purchases in northern Ireland. Similarly, buyers from the north will find their notes gladly accepted here. American tourists visiting both in the north and south of Ireland will find their position much the same as heretofore. The American dollar will be good as ever.

Exchange arrangements are being made by both governments to insure the currency of the other countries in traveling proceeding to Great Britain or abroad, but under no other circumstances will notes forming part of the currency of either countries be regularly issued for general circulation by Irish banks.

W. B. South Park, Ill.—Mack Trucks, Inc., reported net profit of $5,544,200 for 1927, as compared with $5,823,452 for 1926.

This was equal, after preferred dividends, to 40.60 a share on 712,459 shares of no par common stock in 1927, against $10.61 a share in 1926.

The first and second preferred stocks, amounting to $14,353,600, were retired on Dec. 31, 1927.

Surplus for the year 1927 was $426,960, comparing with $2,723,450 for 1926.

Earned surplus stood at $21,530,807 at the end of 1927.

Current assets were $45,062,721 and current liabilities $9,860,322 at the close of 1927.

S. W. STRAUS CO.
ENTERS GENERAL
FINNCE FIELD

Expansion of S. W. Straus & Co., one of the largest real estate mortgage concerns in the country, was announced last night. The company will now enter the general underwriting field, including industrial, public utility, municipal, state, and foreign government financing.

"Our new policy does not mean we will cease to give attention to the financing of building operations," President S. W. Straus explained. "We have come to the conclusion, however, that we can serve our clients to added advantage by offering other securities."

"During the last decade America has gone through the greatest era of building operations in its history. It is our opinion building operations will continue at high levels due to the country's growth in population, business expansion, and advancing standards of living. But during much of the time since the war general economic and social conditions in Europe have been far from stabilized—a situation that has not been without certain adverse influences on many lines of American industry."

"It is apparent that we have reached a point where the market for world goods must grow forward on a more substantial footing. We believe there has been no time since the war when the spirit of optimism has been so prevalent among business leaders and the people in general. These conditions preface a great era of expansion on the part of well managed American corporations, and for this reason there will be a continually increasing requirement for capital with which to develop these larger plans and enterprises."

HOW INSURANCE HELPS GENERAL FINANCIAL LEVEL

BY HARPER LEECH.

Popularization of Chicago insurance companies is not only a social benefit but an important step toward building up Chicago as a financial center. In one sense this city already is a financial center of the first magnitude. All the activities which have to do with the immediate promotion of commerce and industry, Chicago ranks as to New York in a far higher ratio than the ratio of the population of the two cities—which by the way is an accurate reflection of the greater economic activity of the city in regard to basic economic activities.

But in the functions of capital raising and distribution, New York is still benefiting from history—the earlier start. It appears to be a fact today that profits in business tend to be proportionally greater the farther one gets away from raw materials and basic processes. So New York's preminence in the higher and more rarefied varieties of finance results in immense increments of wealth and income, which might as well be realized here—closer to the fundamental.

The stock exchange is, of course, one great factor in New York's financial importance.

The phenomenal jump in the volume of stock trading here this year, which has raised the monthly average of stocks to nearly 3,000,000 shares from a weekly turnover of about 700,000 before the effort to rejuvenate the local exchange was launched last year, indicates that the increased vitality of the Chicago stock market is no mere reflection of the speculative boom in Wall street but a permanent advance.

But Chicago must have bigger insurance companies in our capital market to assume its proper place.

The importance of the insurance companies to New York can hardly be overestimated. As buyers of securities they are not relatively so important as they were back in the days of Harriman, when control of insurance funds almost meant the kingship of railroads and any other industrial institution requiring large sums of financing. The insurance companies remain the most dependable channel through which the savings of great masses of people flow into the capital market of the nation.

At point now these great streams of ready money converge will necessarily be a great capital market—no matter where the money is invested.

As a result legal and insurance companies increased 4-1/2 times, to $9,398,000,000, in the 20 years ending Dec. 31, 1926.

Growth since then has been very rapid. New paid up life insurance bought in March this year aggregated $1,457,616,000, against $1,409,719,000 in March, 1927, and local insurance men say that buying is now at a rate equal to that of last year, which was fully up to the enormous volume of 1926.

That Chicago is now fast ripening into that stage of adult capitalism which supports financial institutions like insurance companies, which collect more money in matured industrial regions than they invest therein, seeking more favorable situations for their investments in territory which needs outside capital for its development, is shown by the fact that the ratio of insurance investments to reserves in the district composed of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin is now nearly 100 per cent—50-50. While this ratio is high compared to that of New England or the middle Atlantic states, it is low compared to the 240 per cent ratio in the states just across the Mississippi River from Illinois.

United States & British International Company, Ltd.

(A Maryland Corporation)

5% Gold Debentures

Due May 1, 1948

Price 95 and Interest, Yielding Over 5.40%

The Company will agree to pay interest without deduction for any Federal Income Tax up to 2%.

The following is summarized from a letter to us of Mr. Ashton Hawkins, President of the Company:

The Company was organized under the laws of Maryland to conduct the business of an investment trust of the general management type.

The Company's assets now include over 400 different governmental, railroad, public utility, industrial and other securities representing investments in over 30 different countries. Also it has a substantial investment in Trans-Oceanic Trust, Ltd., an investment trust organized and operated in Great Britain.

Cash and Investments (at cost and not taking into account the Company's investment of about $2,500,000 in Trans-Oceanic Trust, Ltd.) will upon completion of this financing exceed $13,000,000—an amount over 215% of its total funded debt, which will then consist of these $6,000,000 of 5% Debentures. The aggregate present market value of the investments is in excess of the aggregate cost. Additional Debentures can be issued only under carefully drawn restrictions. The Debentures will be followed by various stocks for which the Company has actually received over $10,000,000 in cash.

The first fiscal year of the Company does not end until November 30, 1928 and accordingly the year's earnings are not available. International Securities Corporation of America (and its predecessor) and Second International Securities Corporation whose investments as in the case of this Company are supervised by American Founders Trust, have each shown since organization average annual net earnings before interest and Federal taxes in excess of 9% on their average annual assets invested and available for investment. Interest charges on this issue of Debentures will require a return after expenses, of less than 2 1/2% on the assets of this Company invested and available for investment. The net paid in bond and share capital of American Founders Trust and the group of investment trusts which commands its investment supervisory service exceeds $100,000,000.

We recommend these Debentures for investment and shall be pleased to send circulars describing the issue in detail.

[LITTLE DRAMAS IN THE LIFE OF A GREAT NEWSPAPER SYSTEM]

How many words will tell this story and should the headline be large or small?

A prominent citizen and his wife, returning from the opera, were held up and robbed in front of their home.

Of how much interest is this news to the community? Should the story of this newest crime crowd the story of the newest scientific achievement off the front page?

Across the desk of the copy-reader in the newspaper office comes the day's grist of human dramas. This desk man must decide which of these items will be worth while news to you; how much of each story you will want to read; which stories should have the main displays, and which, in your interest and for your convenience, should be subordinated or omitted.

Pick up any issue of any SCRIPPS-HOWARD Newspaper and see how well this job is done. You'll find that, item by item, the paper is edited and made up with one idea...to enable you to glean the day's happenings with the least effort and the greatest reading ease.

Big headlines are used only when the facts are big. Minor events are never distorted to create sensationalism. Emphasis is in relation to significance. Copy is confined to essentials, with the "hay" cut out so that you may get your survey of the day's news in the least possible time...leaving you more time to enjoy the purely entertaining features of the newspaper.

It is this efficiency in conveying the news briefly and brilliantly, yet thoroughly and accurately, that has made SCRIPPS-HOWARD Newspapers the pattern of a new-day journalism.

Three Generations
By WARWICK DEEPING

SYNOPSIS.
Old John Pybus, formerly a bookseller in London and later in Winterbourne, is serving as a porter in an inn at Castle Craven when his son Conrad sees him there. He's been estranged from both his sons since the beginning of the war and they have lost track of him. Conrad hastens to tell his brother, Probyn, that he has seen his father. Probyn's son, Lance Pybus, had believed his grandfather dead, but has come up at the Sarcen's Head without telling his parents of the meeting. When Lance returns to Cambridge for the last term he invites his grandfather to visit him there.

INSTALLMENT XX.
SELF-ABSORPTION.

Lance's three intimates, Sorrell, Frensham and Pentreath, accepted the Venerable and were accepted by him, but young Sorrell was the Venerable's favorite.

His heart went out to Christopher as it had gone out to Lance. He was attracted by the essential cleanliness of the lad, his wise simplicity, that sudden smile, his air of oldness in youth. They went out and walked together. Kit found the Venerable easy to talk to.

He talked to him about his father. The impersonal is founded upon the personal, and the struggles and the braveries of Sorrell's father as seen by the son were understood by old Pybus as few men would have understood them.

On one occasion they talked of Lance and of Lance's future. It began with young Sorrell's visualizing of London as a place to live and work in and to be waxed in. For certain aspects of modern life did vex you—its ostentation, its hurry, its red light, its many performances. And Christopher believed that his friend would do big things.

"He's got it in him. You have read some of his stuff, sir—don't you think?"

Old Pybus' white eyebrows seemed to come closer together under the brim of his hat. He did believe with Kit that his grandson had the big thing in him, but one or two of the big and simpler things that had become part of the mystic consciousness of Sorrell's son were still below the surface with him. Lance had the wildness and the fire, the generosity and the selflessness of the child. He was a child, a brilliant and lovable child. He had not become man quite as young Sorrell was man. One had suffered more than the other.

Said the Venerable:

"It may be better for some one if he does not find things too easy."

"Have to struggle a bit, sir?"

"That's it. The easy thing can be so fatal. Besides, he has had things made rather easy for him. It doesn't do."

The girl stood at an upper window of No. 7 Parham Crescent.

Christopher looked at a yellow elm leaf that had settled on the Venerable's hat.

"I have—and I haven't. What I mean is—my pater is such a sportsman, he's so—"

"Ah," said John Pybus. "I'll tell you what has always seemed to me to be—the ideal situation. To begin with—I mean. That one person should be in you solidly—while the rest of the world should think nothing of you."

"There's an urge for you."

Kit gave him one of his sudden smiles.

"Yes—I should think that's rather a sound idea, sir. But you have to believe in yourself."

"Assuredly. Lance does. The rub comes when you find other people hard to convince. Not even taking you for granted."

On the last evening of the Venerable's holiday they went to chapel together, and afterwards there came to old Pybus a vision of life as it is. Lance wanted some tobacco. The great crowd was huddled with autumn vapor, and as they passed from it into the town hall he had a moment to look at old Modern. Modern suggested to old Pybus Bruges plastered with Americanistic signs. A shop window glistened. The Venerable stood with his back to it, and the glint of the various windows met in the market place and were sobered. Lance had gone in to buy four ounces of his particular mixture.

As he came out a group of young girls went by, looking to old Pybus like so many pairs of legs and hats joined by flat strings of colors. They were full of giggles and loud talk. They appeared to flow past Lance and round him. The Venerable saw one of them look with a kind of inviting defiance into Lance's face.

"Sorry to keep your grandpa."

"A girl's voice moaned him."

"So sorry to detain you—have—grand—fawther. So—sorry."

The girl let out little screams of laughter.

"Distractions," he said. "Is it the vulgarity of ugliness—or the ugliness of vulgarity—that makes you scorn?"

He stood still a moment, still holding his grandfather's arm.

"I suppose you have to bolt yourself down."

"But not in," said his grandfather, "not in."

The girl stood at an upper window of No. 7 Parham crescent. The lower sash was raised, and by leaning forward she was able to see the curve of the crescent and the white houses with their green area railings and their grey blue and brown front doors. The houses were not so white as in Victorian days, nor were the railings so green.

The girl was dressed for going out, though on a warm May evening that was required for out-of-doors was a little black hat with a black cigarette cocked over the left ear. She was a pretty thing and much more than pretty. Some one has described her type as both hot and hard. Her sensuousness was relative, sufficiently sleek to catch the eye of a man, and it was all that she could afford. But she had youth, and youth's skin, and a dewiness of the eyes.

The girl was watching for a young man who presently emerged from the doorway of No. 17. He turned to the left along the curve of the crescent, and leaning almost off of his direction the girl scurried out of her bed sitting room and down the stairs. The green front door closed on her dark hair and down the steps, the girl was a pretty thing and much more than pretty. Some one has described her type as both hot and hard. Her sensuousness was relative, sufficiently sleek to catch the eye of a man, and it was all that she could afford. But she had youth, and youth's skin, and a dewiness of the eyes.

The girl was walking fast. She was very much a young man with a purpose. What the girl saw of him was youthfully modern, a soft hat with a silver brim, a cigarette jutting out from a leather holder, a brown jacket slightly cinched at the waist, ample gray trousers. She knew as much about him as Mrs. Ganson, her landlady could tell her, for Parham crescent was Mrs. Ganson's zoo, full of monkeys and snakes and parakeets, and laughing monkeys. Mr. Pybus was what they used to call a "literary gent." It appeared that he had some money. He was an odd young man who was also a scribbler and walking. On occasions a big car would stand for an hour, "scribbling and walking. On occasions a big car would stand for an hour," said No. 17. His mother visited him; at least, they supposed that she did. She was a somewhat pink and yellow girl.

The girl followed Lance into the Marylebone road, along it, down Harley street, and along New Cavendish street into Portland place. She did not know where he was going. He crossed to the Queen's hall, and dodging a snow where he saw him enter the hall. The bills told her that Thibaud and Cortot had given a concert. Obviously No. 17 was in search of nothing more than a seat.

The girl hung about for ten minutes, and then strolled away up Portland place, having had out a Queen's hall concert once or twice in her life. She had been interested in watching the conductor of the orchestra, and the girl who had been watching him was youthful and attractive, playing at what she had called "swatting flies." Her active and alert movements handling of the baton had struck her as funny. She had been sure that he had not succeeded in hitting a single fly. Now while she strolled, May evening, with the London dusk beginning to dim her face, she strolled, and supposed that the Pybus boy would be easily seated for some hours, she had gone out as the butterfly; she would return as the moth.

She came out full of the color we see in Thibaud's violin. He made his entrance, and the girl had out a Queen's hall concert once or twice in her life. He would have made his way through the hazels of couplet humours. If I just the same position. He had all the artist's intense self-absorption, if you like the moon he saw it as his moon.

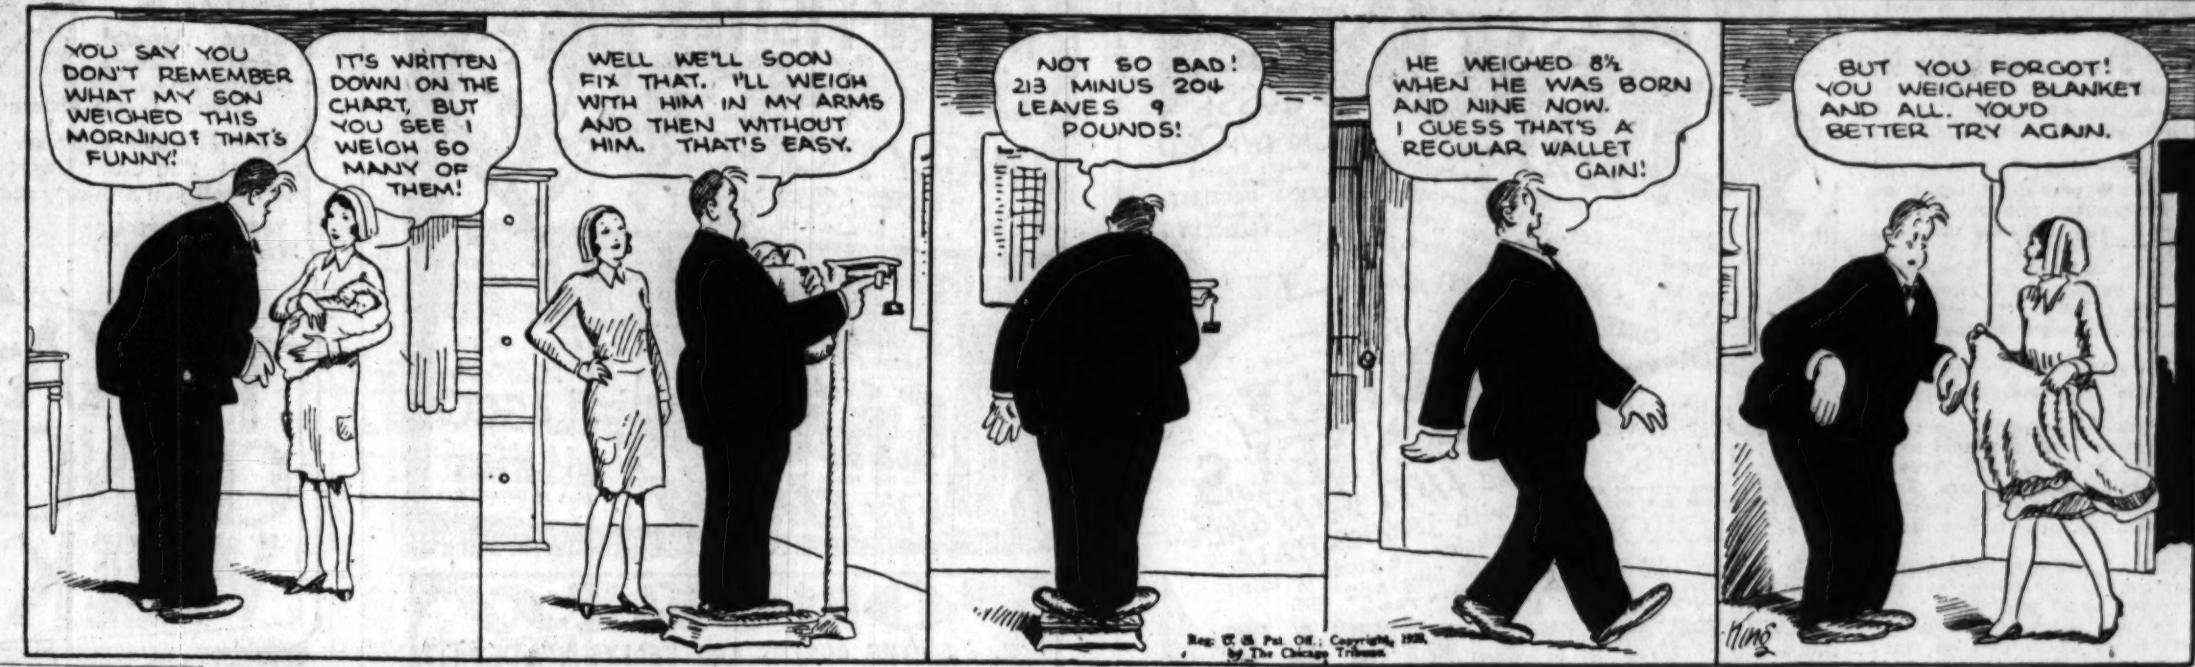

Walking along Portland place he may or may not have realized that a lot was walking some ten yards in front of him.

Good morning!

We Americans born and brought up over here, or perhaps flaunting our citizenship papers, thought we were English or Irish or German or Jewish or Italian-American until war was declared and Uncle Sam sent out the clarion call, "Americans, your country needs you!" THEN—we were ALL Americans, weren't we? Fighting and praying and sorrowing, and giving till it hurt, that the Stars and Stripes might continue to float proudly in air. All of us! United by a common loyalty and a common need.

That's what "We Americans" is about. A story of America's melting pot that gives you an insight into the lives and mental processes of the men and women of different nationalities: the problems that confront them, and their own and their children's reactions.

The picture has a definite and powerfully thought behind it and is, in the main, well made. Its faults are garrulosity and lack of suspense.

Patsy Ruth Miller (fashion note) is wearing her hair long and a la Dolores del Rio and it is certainly MOST becoming. She is charming. But the characters who will win most your sympathy are Beryl Mercer as Mrs. Levine and Albert Gran as Mr. Schmidt.

The Only Child Does Present a Problem to Parents

Mr. Gladys Huntington & Sons

"What can we do about the only child?" was asked at a lecture by a group of mothers who had allowed themselves to become very worried over the much advertised plight of the only child.

"There shouldn't be any only child," was the answer they received from an eminent psychologist.

Which is not exactly helpful, to say the least.

"What can you say to help us on the only child problem?" asked a woman not long ago of a well known psychologist who had just finished her lecture.

The doctor thought a moment—then she answered, "I think the greatest help in solving the only child problem lies in recognizing that it is a problem."

This to my mind, is an extremely pertinent and intelligent reply.

Why? Because if you recognize that it does present difficulties, this having of an only child, you're pretty apt to be thinking about them. And if you put your mind to the task of solving them, the battle is more than half won.

For after all, the only child dilemma isn't such a hair raising one as many people would lead us to suppose. To some people it used to be and still is an axiom that an only child is a spoiled child. That is nonsense—an only child doesn't have to be a spoiled child unless its mother is lacking in good judgment. There are several things that she will realize must be done as soon as she puts her intelligence to work on the problem.

One of the most important of these is to give an only child plenty of the companionship of children as near his own age as possible, so that he will learn the give and take of social intercourse.

Another thing is to see that he is not made too much the center of attention, either when he is with his parents or when relatives or friends come to visit. By this I don't mean that he is to be ignored, but that he's not to be treated so that he becomes self-conscious or requires nothing.

Another thing is to avoid waiting on him hand and foot. Don't make him helpless and dependent. Let him do as much for himself as he is capable of doing.

As simple obvious measures like this will help the parents that prevent the only child from becoming spoiled. Though simple, they are fundamental—and easily accomplished if the desire exists in the parents. As to the other kind of spelling—lots of love and interest and gifts and surprises—well, I don't believe that is ailing at all.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Chicken Souffle.

A considerable number of people are working about souffles, sometimes substituting guest menus including one. We can but say that the souffles the chef prepares, all of beaten egg white and of some meat—ham maybe, ground and seasoned and made like this—it are a nice task to do because what it has is virtually a meringue, and meringues certainly trouble the cook in egg beating and cooking. But for home consumption, and even for our friends, we can do something simpler, or make what can be compared to an egg pudding—bread, rice, etc.

For a chicken souffle, somewhat puddling like, take one cup of cold cooked chicken and cut it fine. We mash it like velvet if we choose. Mix this with a cup of chicken sauce or of all chicken stock, or better, part of chicken stock and part cream, our milk will do. For the fat, to use with three level tablespoons of flour, take three tablespoons of chicken fat or butter or all butter. The seasonings should always be added fastidiously because they give this an added flavor to a bona fide souffle. Sauté green pepper, the red, will make of this a sort of chicken à la King souffle.

Three eggs will be sufficient for the cup of chicken in the cup of sauce. First make the sauce and add the chicken to it. We may also add a little shredded pimento, some slightly red mushrooms and a little onion juice. The seasonings should always be added fastidiously because they give this an added flavor to a bona fide souffle. Sauté green pepper, the red, will make of this a sort of chicken à la King souffle.

The sauce and chicken cooked together briefly, should be cooled or cold, before the three egg yolks beaten are added to it and stirred with it to a good blend. Then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and bake in a buttered baking dish for about a half hour, in a 350 degree or a bit higher oven, but always bake until it puffs slightly and is slightly set so it will not sink rapidly.

YOU MUST SEE, TODAY, THIS STORY OF HEART-STARTLING POWER!

You will laugh, as yesterday's throngs laughed, loud, long and hard, at the brave humor with which the people of New York's lower East Side meet the battle of life.

You will throb with the love of a Fifth Ave. aristocrat for a Ghetto-flower, a romance that melted the hearts of crowds yesterday. It's a springtime love-tale.

You will sob, as everybody sobbed yesterday, when mothers of New York's "400" mingle their tears with mothers of the tenements. A great picture for every American.

Col. Langhorne and Bride Are to Make
Home in Chicago

BY THALIA

Won't the hosts of Chicago friends and relatives of the beautiful Mary Waller Langhorne be delighted to know that she and her new husband, Col. George T. Langhorne, are going to reside in Chicago and that they are to arrive quite soon? Everybody has been wondering and wondering in just what spot of the world Col. Langhorne's military duties would take him, and now it has been affirmed that he is to be stationed here in the intelligence department of the 6th corps area. He is succeeding Col. William Graham, whose departure with pleasant Mrs. Graham for Fort Snelling, Minn., about May 20 will be regretted despite the desirability of his successor. Lots of people here know Col. Langhorne and his charming sister, Mrs. Powell Clayton, and Mrs. Stanley Washburne. He was a cadet at West Point with Mrs. Arthur A. Small's and Mrs. R. R. McCormick's brother and there are many other contacts that make him and Mrs. Langhorne's arrival here a matter of great interest and joy to society.

Mr. Frank R. Wheeler is chairman of the hostesses to preside at each day's session of the Drama League play tournament at the Goodman theater this week. The winners in the preliminaries will give their plays on Sunday evening. The Edith Rockefeller McCormick silver cup goes to the grand winner, and other prizes offered are by Mrs. Charles Beale, Mrs. Moise Dreifus, George Lytton, Mortimer Singer, and Miss Dorothy Braun. Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw's play, "The Deak of Simeon Dark," is one of the entries. Mrs. Samuel P. Newton, Mrs. Edwin S. Pierce, and Mrs. Franklin Miller are to be hostesses this afternoon. Mrs. Edmund Andrews, Mrs. Harry P. Jones, and Miss Johanna Donat tomorrow. Mrs. Calvin Hyland, Mrs. Walter Egan, Mr. William J. White, and Mrs. Cary Culbertson on Wednesday, and Mrs. William E. Wright, Mrs. Mortimer Singer, Mrs. James Dillard, and Mrs. William F. Tuttle on Thursday.

Edward L. Hersey Jr. and his bride, the former Emily Burnett, have had a good time in the Midwest thus far. They were visiting Mr. Hersey's mother, as also were Mr. Hersey's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Wyman Carroll Jr. of New London, Conn. Mr. and Mrs. John Gilman Ordway gave a luncheon for Mrs. Hersey and Mrs. Carroll on Saturday afternoon, and in the evening a Hersey and the Carrolls had a dinner party given for them by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Swift Strong in Minneapolis, after which everybody went to a Tuxedo club party at the Hotel Radisson.

The Chicago Council on Foreign Relations announces a luncheon meeting in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house on Wednesday at 12:15 o'clock. Fridtjof Nansen, arctic explorer, is to speak on "The Small States in World Politics."

The Vocational Society for Shuh Ins announces a sale of handmade articles on Friday at the residence of Mrs. Nathan W. MacChesney of 548 Hawthorne place. Mrs. Leonard A. Busby, Mrs. Samuel Dauchy, Mrs. Edward O. Griffenhagen, Mrs. H. Newton Hudson, Mrs. Harry K. Jones, Mrs. John J. Jordan, Mrs. George Kohout, Mrs. Anna Whiting, and Mrs. Edward S. Bailey will be among those on the program.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., May 6.—[Special.]—The Vice President and Mrs. Dawes were guests at a dinner last evening of the Italian ambassador and his wife.

Miss Anna Day Deneen, who returned early today from a week-end visit at Princeton, N. J., gave a tea this afternoon for Miss Helen Clifford, formerly of Chicago, and to introduce Miss Deenen's little house party composed of Miss Little Taylor of Eastland, Tex., a classmate at Bryn Mawr college, and Miss Alice Hester Griffin of Misses' Hill-Wallace of Chicago, who were their classmates in school in Chicago. Miss Taylor and Miss Deneen motored to Bryn Mawr the middle of the week for the May day fete.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Edward Lake of Evanston announced the engagement of their daughter, Doris Anthony, to Thomas Henry Mullin Jr., son of Mrs. Thomas Henry Mullin of Chicago.

Miss Lake, who is to be graduated from Northwestern University in June, is a member of Kappa Delta sorority and of Phi Beta Kappa scholastic organization. Mr. Mullin was graduated from the Medill School of Journalism at Northwestern in 1926. He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi.
